

ABA Screens Court Candidates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Bar Association is screening a list of fewer than 12 potential Supreme Court nominees submitted by the Ford administration and expects to report on their qualifications early next week, an administration official said.

Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi sent the list to the ABA on Thursday.

A high-ranking official called it "a very small list" of fewer than a dozen persons under consideration for President Ford's nomination to succeed retired Justice William O. Douglas.

Levi invited the ABA to suggest additional candidates, but an ABA official said the organization is not likely to do so.

The administration has made no formal commitment to be bound by the ABA report, which will rate the potential nominees as "not qualified," "not opposed" or "among the best available." But officials indicated that Ford would be unlikely to nominate someone the ABA called unqualified.

Only a handful of White House and Justice Department officials knew the identity of those on the list, and none were willing to divulge the names or other details.

No one would say whether women were included, but First Lady Betty Ford said she will continue to urge her husband to become the first president to choose a woman for the highest court.

"As a matter of equal opportunity and equal rights this would be a very fine example," she told reporters.

Cite Kissinger For Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House intelligence committee voted today to cite Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for contempt of Congress for refusing to turn over subpoenaed documents on eight covert intelligence operations.

The contempt citation was approved 10 to 2.

The committee's senior Republican, Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois, quoted White House counsel Philip Buchen as saying President Ford intends to cite executive privilege in refusing to turn over the documents.

The committee had subpoenaed Kissinger to turn over all State Department requests for covert intelligence operations abroad in one of seven subpoenas issued last week. Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., said that, "On this subpoena, we have received nothing."

"I for one am weary of this whole business of waiting and delaying, waiting and delaying on the information the committee is entitled to and needs to conduct its business," Pike said.

New York City Plan Strikes New Snag

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A partisan political fight over a plan to impose nearly $1 billion in new taxes to improve the finances of the state and New York City could delay a possible agreement between the governor and the Ford administration to rescue the city from default.

Gov. Hugh Carey and state legislative leaders were to meet with White House officials today in Washington in efforts to get President Ford to back Carey's latest plan to save New York City and the state from financial disaster and win Ford's agreement for federal help.

Mrs. Peron Ready For Showdown

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Isabel Peron has returned home from the hospital amid widespread expectation that a showdown after five months of political crisis is imminent.

Before Mrs. Peron went back to her suburban residence Thursday night, she met with her cabinet at the clinic where she had spent 11 days. It was the first known official contact with her eight ministers since she went to the hospital.

The government announced when Mrs. Peron was hospitalized that she had a gall bladder condition that was not serious. Other sources said she was in a highly nervous condition as a result of the pressure on her to resign.

The clinic announced on Wednesday night that the 44-year-old president was "totally recovered." Interior Minister Angel Robledo said she was in "good physical and spiritual condition."

Despite her inability to improve Argentina's grave economic situation or to check the political terrorism wracking the country, Mrs. Peron said in a broadcast from her hospital room last week that she had no intention of resigning or taking another leave of absence.

Some new names surfaced as lawyers and government officials continued to speculate about the possible candidates. Those women figuring most prominently in the speculation included Soia Ment-schikoff, dean of the University of Miami (Fla.) law school; Betty Southard Murphy, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board; Carla A. Hills, secretary of housing and urban development; and U.S. Circuit Court Judge Shirley Hufstедler.

Among the men considered leading candidates were Levi, Solicitor General Robert H. Bork, Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman and Assistant Senate Republican Leader Robert Griffin, R-Mich.

Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott urged Ford to consider Judge Arlin M. Adams of the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia. Scott recommended Mrs. Hills if Ford wants to nominate a woman and Griffin if he wants a member of Congress.

"It will be essential to have someone who can avoid a lengthy period of confirmation since the court functions best at full strength," Scott told Ford in a letter.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen agreed that "there is a certain urgency to have a full court," and he said Ford hopes to submit the nomination to the Senate "as quickly as possible."

Levi's action in sending the list to the ABA less than 24 hours after Douglas submitted his resignation was an indication that the nomination could come in a matter of days.

But McClory said Buchen had told him that many of the State Department requests for covert operations had been made directly to previous presidents and that Ford would therefore cite executive privilege to withhold them.

"He assured me the president (involved) had personally approved each of these operations," McClory said.

Pike said he understood the eight intelligence operations requested by the State Department since Jan. 20, 1961, had been approved by former Presidents John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson and possibly Richard M. Nixon.

The committee's chief counsel, A. Searle Field, said that three of the eight requests by the State Department had been made directly to presidents and five had not.

The five presumably were made to the National Security Council's 40 Committee, which is designated to consider requests for covert operations before passing recommendations on to the president.

Senate Majority Leader Warren Anderson and Democratic Assembly Speaker Stanley Steingut were to meet with Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns; presidential economic adviser William Seidman; Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers; and aides to Treasury Secretary William Simon. Simon himself was out of town.

The meeting was scheduled Thursday as the President's press secretary hinted broadly that Ford may soon endorse some form of federal involvement in the plan.

"The situation we are talking about has changed," said White House spokesman Ron Nessen. "Obviously there has been finally, at long last, some serious action by New York City and New York State to solve their own problems."

Simon said in Salt Lake City late Thursday he hopes Carey's plan will be approved by the legislature, but that he believes the President's policy against a federal bail-out will not change.

Carey outlined his tax proposals in a private meeting with legislative leaders Thursday, suggesting hefty increases in state taxes on income, liquor, gasoline, corporations and banks, as well as a one-cent sales tax hike for the state and a one-cent hike for New York City that would push the total in the city to 10 cents on the dollar. The current state sales tax is 4 cents on the dollar.

Some of those present at the meeting said they were astounded by the size of the tax package; reports before the meeting had suggested tax increases of from $300 million to $500 million.

Carey reportedly backed off a bit when faced with criticism from the Republicans present, and indicated he was willing to negotiate.

Ohio High Court Hears 6-Day War Arguments

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The main issue in the legislature's so-called "Six Day War" is not the partisan bickering over their passage, argues Atty. Gen. William J. Brown.

Rather, the authority of the legislature to enforce its will, whichever party is in power, is the primary issue, he contends.

The Democratic attorney general made the first arguments before the Supreme Court on Thursday as he asked the court to allow six highly partisan bills signed by former Gov. John J. Gilligan to become law.

Brown said lower court decisions blocking the bills could mean that the lieutenant governor will assume a veto power greater than that of the governor's or that the legislature will be forced to rely on the judiciary for any authority.

The attorney general said either result could be catastrophic for state government.

Brown's filing was a memorandum attempting to convince the court the appeal is important enough to be heard. Opposition Republicans have 30 days to file arguments opposing further appeals.

After that, the court will decide whether the legal questions in the appeal are significant enough to warrant hearing full arguments.

The appeal involves six bills passed in January when Ohio had both a Democratic legislature and a Democratic governor.

Under Ohio's constitution, new legislators are seated a week before a new governor. In January, that meant a Democratic legislature was in power a week before Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes replaced Democrat Gilligan.

During those six working days, Democrats rushed through six bills making state law more favorable to their party's members and workers.

For the most part, the bills took power away from Republicans and gave it to Democrats. One of the bills redrew Congressional district lines so individual congressmen would have more Democrats and fewer Republicans in their districts.

Outnumbered Republicans lawmakers could only sit back, watch and depend on Republican Lt. Gov. John Brown to block the bills. The

City Board Of Education Personnel Committee Named

By SUE BOYER
Herald Staff Writer

At the regular meeting of the Circleville board of education Thursday night, board president Dale DeLong named a new board personnel committee for 1976.

Board members Dr. Robert Liggett and Forrest Brown were appointed to the committee by DeLong. DeLong noted that this action is not usually taken until the January organizational meeting. He said he named the new committee at this time so that the members can become familiar with certain financial and personnel matters in preparation of the negotiations with the teachers' organization which begins in February. DeLong and Thomas Elsea, the outgoing board members, served on this committee in previous years.

Shirley Wylie, who represented the board at the recent Ohio School Boards Association Capital Conference, reported on the activities and speakers featured at the annual convention.

Superintendent Fritz Jacobs reported to the board that a total of 1,095 parent-teacher conferences had been held on Oct. 28. There had been 1,303 scheduled. Following is a breakdown of the number of conferences per building: South Court Elementary, 164; Mound Street Elementary, 129; high school, 177; junior high, 242; High Street Elementary, 46; Corwin Street Elementary, 60; Atwater Elementary, 144; Nicholas Drive Elementary, 119.

There were also 14 conferences held in the speech and hearing department.

Approval was then given by the board to establish Jan. 19 as a full day of parent-teacher conferences. School will be dismissed for that purpose. It will also be a holiday for the non-certificated staff in observance of Martin Luther King day.

In regular action, the board approved the attendance of six staff members to professional meetings, approved tutoring for seven elementary students and home instruction for one high school student and approved transportation for one handicapped student to the Neil Avenue School in Columbus.

The resignation of Karen Rose, high school and elementary art teacher, was accepted effective at the end of the first semester, Jan. 23.

Also regarding personnel, the board approved employing Karen Rafeld as girls' assistant basketball coach. The supplemental contract offers $185.

The board also established $185 as an

Courts Slow On Provision For Counsel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many of the nation's courts have achieved only token compliance with a 1972 Supreme Court decision requiring that lawyers be provided all criminal defendants who face possible prison terms, according to a new federally funded study.

"Alarmingly little has happened," said the report prepared by the Center for Criminal Justice at the Boston University Law School.

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which provided $257,786 for the 18-month research project, released the five-volume report today.

The researchers studied methods of providing lawyers for defendants charged with misdemeanors carrying possible prison sentences of less than one year.

Such offenses vary from city to city but, usually include public drunkenness, disorderly conduct, petty theft, and larceny.

The researchers also reviewed the court practices in Boston; Cleveland; Des Moines; Houston; Birmingham; Belle Glade, Fla.; Rocky River, Ohio; Saco, Maine, and San Jose, Calif.

"Although most jurisdictions have begun to appoint counsel in nonfelony cases where imprisonment may be imposed, ... compliance has generally been token in nature," the report said.

Judges often encourage defendants to waive their right to an attorney, and in Houston and Belle Glade, "it is assumed that a defendant has waived counsel unless he aggressively asserts this right," the report said.

The researchers said that in Des Moines poor defendants are left with the mistaken impression they must pay for their own attorney.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back a bit today while investors waited for the next developments in the efforts to find an answer to New York City's money problems.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down .47 at 850.76, and losers outpaced gainers by slightly less than a 3-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Northeast Utilities was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 1/8 at 10 1/2. A 120,000-share block changed hands at that price.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .09 to 48.11, and the American Stock Exchange market value index also was down .09, at 85.57.

Volume on the Big Board slowed to 7.32 million shares over the first two hours, compared with 12.60 million in the comparable period Thursday.

the Supreme Court to review those rulings.

The attorney general said in his memorandum that the 10th District court saw the case as a question of whether other persons could preempt the lieutenant governor's authority.

"As the court framed the issue, the conclusion was obvious," Brown said. "But the court's statement of the issue did not pose the right questions."

"The first question the court of appeals should have asked was what duties does the lieutenant governor have..."

"The appellants (Democrats) contend that the Ohio constitution requires the lieutenant governor to certify to the governor only that the act in question was read three times and received a constitutional majority."

"The second question the court of appeals should have asked is what action the Senate may take in the face of the lieutenant governor's failure or refusal to perform his duty..."

"The appellants contend that the Senate has the right and the duty...to protect the integrity of its processes from the nonfeasance (failure to act) of it presiding officer (the lieutenant governor)."

Believe Wreckage Of Freighter Found

CLEVELAND (AP) — U.S. Coast Guard officials here say a Navy plane has located what may be the wreckage of the ore-carrier Edmund Fitzgerald. The 729-foot freighter sank Monday in the stormy waters of Lake Superior with 29 men aboard.

The find was made about 6:30 p.m. Thursday by a P3 plane about 1.8 miles from the last reported position of the Fitzgerald about 13 miles west of Coppermine Point.

A Coast Guard spokesman here said confirmation will be attempted Friday through the use of sonar equipment. The spokesman said the aircraft crew also spotted a slight oil slick where the ill-fated vessel may lie in about 370 feet of water.

In Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., some 65 miles southeast of where the freighter was last seen, a Coast Guard spokesman emphasized the indefinite nature of the sighting.

"There's no firm data yet. It's just possible. We'll try to pinpoint it tomorrow (Friday)," he said.

"There's another wreck there that was never plotted and that's what it could possibly be."

He said the wreckage was not spotted visually, but by a magnetic scanner carried in the Navy craft.

"There's nothing assured," the Coast Guardsman said. "We'll have to locate it for sure." He said there are no definite plans to send a diver down to the wreckage, which is resting on the bottom.

But he indicated if it is reasonably certain the wreckage is the Fitzgerald, chances are good a diver would be used because investigators would want pictures, presumably to determine what happened to the giant ore carrier.

The attorney general argued that if the lower courts' decisions should stand, the lieutenant governor could effectively veto any legislation by withholding his signature.

That veto power would be stronger than the governor's, he said, since the legislature would have no way of overriding it.

Brown said the only alternative would be to go to the courts in legal action against the lieutenant governor, an alternative which would cripple the legislature and make it a servant of the judiciary.

He argued that the lieutenant governor's signature is a perfunctory duty, and its presence on the bill "affects a bill's validity not in the least."

The attorney general said undisputed testimony in the case was that the lieutenant governor never actually examined bills, but merely signed as a matter of procedure—except in this case.

He said the lack of such a signature should not affect the bills since Democratic legislative leaders attached affidavits swearing that constitutional requirements for the bills were met.

Economist Predicts Poor Year

CLEVELAND (AP)—Economist Pierre Rinfret says "boom" is a word that has gone out of style for forecasters, and he doesn't like what he sees in his crystal ball for next year. "I'm a bullish bear," Rinfret said as he unloaded a mixed 1976 forecast at Central National Bank's annual economic forecast luncheon Thursday. He predicted slight increases in industrial production and the gross national product but said the inflation rate will hit 13 per cent and interest rates could go as high as 12 per cent by the end of next year.

Turning to politics, Rinfret said the 1976 presidential campaign would be "a clash between free enterprise versus more government...and I believe the people of the United States will choose the Socialist path."

He predicted that Hubert H. Humphrey, "the spender," will be the Democrat standard-bearer and said California's Ronald Reagan "is going to knock Ford out of the box...Reagan is going to cream him in New Hampshire and Florida primaries."

Saying the swing toward socialism will mean "more federal spending and more domination of the government over the individual," Rinfret added: "I've seen the future, and it's beginning to scare the living hell out of me."

Regarding New York City's financial problems, Rinfret predicted that President Ford will not bail the city out. He said New York has become the "battleground between socialism and free enterprise."

Ohio Jobless Rate Shows Weekly Rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Non-metropolitan counties contributed the heaviest to the rise in unemployment in Ohio at the beginning of November, the Bureau of Employment Services said Thursday.

Initial claims were up to 24,277 for the week ended Nov. 8, almost equal to the 1974 average for the same month of 23,447.

The week before, 18,982 applied for benefits under state and federal programs and for the week concluding Oct. 18, 16,724 were asking for initial compensation.

The new claims occurred primarily in the 80 nonmetropolitan counties where more than 4,000 unemployed were added to the rolls. In the state's eight largest counties, another 1,000 were on unemployment lines.

Claims for one week or more were also on the increase to 131,643 as of the week ended Nov. 1. The bureau estimated that 129,500 received unemployment insurance for the week ended Nov. 8.

Continuing claims, after a 13-week rally downward, continue an up-and-down pattern from last month. The average claims during November 1974 were 85,471.

First-time claims for extended state and federal programs and supplemental benefit programs dropped while those already receiving those money under these categories continued as recipients.

King Philip's Indian War Almost Forgotten

EDITOR'S NOTE — Each fall Princess Red Wing leads a group to the site of the Great Swamp massacre and they form a circle of brotherhood.

By ROBERT PARRY
Associated Press Writer
ARCADIA, R.I. (AP) — A century before the colonists began the Revolutionary War, another group of Americans fought to drive the British from these shores. The Indians of southern New England waged the year-long King Philip's War and lost.

That war, which began in 1675, was the first major armed resistance by American Indians to the encroachment of English settlers.

The Indians' crushing defeat a year later foreshadowed the final defeat of the Indians in their struggle to stop white settlement of America.

Despite its historical importance, the King Philip's War has been largely forgotten in the Bicentennial celebration.

But Princess Red Wing, a 77-year-old Indian who runs an Indian trading post here and claims to be a direct descendant of King Philip, has not forgotten.

"King Philip's War was a

Visions Of Mary Discounted

NECEDAH, Wis. (AP) — "I stood at the door waiting, but none of them showed up," said the Rev. James Barney, pastor of St. Francis of Assisi Church in this tiny central Wisconsin community. "I wasn't going to let them in if they did."

"They" are the "Van Hoofers" or "shriners" — followers of Mary Ann Van Hoof, a 66-year-old widow who claims to have had visions of the Blessed Virgin since 1949.

Father Barney's decision to bar her followers from attending Mass at his church has increased the split between the Roman Catholic Church and Mrs. Van Hoof's disciples.

It is a split which the priest estimates has cut parish membership of about 750 by more than half; has caused parish income to drop by 44 per cent from the first to the third quarter; and has some "Van Hoofers" talking about building their own church.

The division began when a former bishop of the Diocese of La Crosse denounced her claims as false in 1955. Then early this year Mrs. Van Hoof and six of her key followers were placed under interdict by the current bishop, the Most Rev. Frederick Freking. Interdict, a rarely invoked censure, forbids access to any church sacraments except confession.

Despite the opposition from the official church, Mrs. Van Hoof contends that she has continued to receive visions and messages from heaven. Her followers have erected a series of shrines on her former farm, several hundred persons have moved to Necedah and others make regular pilgrimages to pray there.

Public Hearings Set On Transport Projects

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Public hearings have been set for mid-December for three rural public transportation demonstration projects, the Department of Transportation said. Ohio is among 31 states to receive federal funds for the project.

The demonstrations will be carried out by the Appalachian Ohio Regional Transit Association in Athens, Hocking, Perry, Meigs, Jackson, Vinton and Gallia counties.

Clermont and Geauga counties will also take part in the project.

Gauga County, Ohio, formed in 1805, takes its name from the Indian word for "raccoon."

revolutionary war to save his home, his tribe and his family," she said in an interview. "King Philip figured the Indians would all be pushed into the sea or all be killed, and if they didn't rise up then and protect their homes and families, they'd be annihilated. He was right in what he thought."

King Philip, a Wampanoag chieftain, was the son of Massasoit, who welcomed the Pilgrims to Plymouth in 1620 and who helped the early settlers survive their first difficult years. As a mark of respect for the settlers, Massasoit gave his sons English names.

But 50 years later, the English settlers were no longer weak and clinging to precarious beachheads. They had established themselves in towns and had begun to press inland, ever hungry for Indian land.

Believing his people were being degraded and robbed of their homes, Philip launched a war to drive the English back into the sea.

In the summer of 1675, the Indians scored early victories against frontier Massachusetts towns, some of which were destroyed by fire and others abandoned by frightened settlers.

But the colonial forces grew in strength and skill, and by the late fall, they were ready to begin their first major campaign — against the Narragansett Indians who until then had remained neutral.

Troops from Massachusetts, Plymouth, Connecticut and Rhode Island marched against the Narragansett's winter encampment in the Great Swamp in South Kingstown on Dec. 19, 1675.

The resulting battle, known as the Great Swamp Fight, may have been the first great massacre of Indians in the English colonies. Hundreds and possibly thousands of Narragansetts perished.

Princess Red Wing describes the attack:

"Those four armies went in there to burn that fort on a very cold, cold night, and Canonchet, the young (Indian) officer, didn't even have a sentinel out because the Narragansetts were there to be neutral, out of King Philip's War."

"He recorded, 'It does not please me to shed one drop of English blood,' so he gathered the people into Great Swamp ...

"And these Indians were all fast asleep when those four armies crept in there and set the village on fire and burned up thousands of men, women, children, old folks and babies."

History books, based on accounts of the attackers, say that 1,000 or more Indians were killed at Great Swamp, mostly by fire.

By the next summer, the English colonists held sway in the forests where the Indians earlier had been a dreaded force. The colonial armies rounded up hundreds of demoralized warriors.

King Philip, whose wife and children had been captured and sold into slavery, was relentlessly pursued. Then on Aug. 12, 1676, near his original home at Mount Hope in Bristol, Philip was trapped in an ambush and killed. His hiding place had been revealed to the colonists by a drunken halfbreed named Alderman, who later charged admission to see the pickled hand he cut from King Philip's corpse.

"What kind of man was King Philip," Princess Red Wing reflects. "This is the kind of man he was: When his wife and child were taken and sold into slavery, he said, 'I have nothing more for which to fight.'"

"He fought for land, for home, for his family, his loved ones, as people fight today," she said. Although Princess Red Wing says she does not like to dwell on the wars, she began organizing memorial ceremonies 35 years ago for the Indians who fought and died in the King Philip's War.

Immigrant Wins Lottery

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Scottish immigrant who came to America in 1948 was named the top prize winner in Thursday's Ohio Lottery Buckeye 1,000 game.

Henry Cranston, 61, of Wadsworth said that he plans to use part of his winnings to take a trip back to Scotland next year when he plans to retire. He is an inspector at Babcock & Wilcox in Barberton.

The father of seven Cranston said the money will help with house payments. He will receive $1,000 a month for life, or at least $400,000.

Other winners in Thursday's drawing were Dorothy Springborn, Cleveland, $4,000; William Cross, Racine, $3,000; Leroy Ward, Hillsboro, $2,000 and Harry D. Tracey, New Haven, Ind., $1,000.

Lenders Unencumbered

Interesting as all the hoopla over 1976 presidential politics is, a number of people still have a lively interest in the 1968 and 1972 goings-on. About $2,000,000 worth of interest. For that is the amount, by one estimate, still owed by various presidential candidates in those campaigns.

Some of the creditors are suing. American Airlines, for instance, would like to collect the $269,000 still owed by the campaign organization of Robert Kennedy. Practically speaking, few of the creditors ever will be paid.

But the practice of campaigning on the cuff has some people searching the new campaign finance law to see what prohibitions there are against someone "loaning" far more than the $1,000 limit on personal campaign gifts, and then after the election writing off the loan as collectible.

So far they haven't found anything in the fine print which says it cannot be done.

Steal A Story

By JIM BISHOP

Some readers are rightfully annoyed with me because I return their manuscripts unread. There are good reasons for this. A writer is seldom a good judge of other people's work. An editor is qualified to read it, judge it, buy it or return it.

In addition, there is always the danger that a writer may read an unpublished work and, years later, write something on the same subject. If he does, he can be sued.

It is doubtful that any author would deliberately practice plagiarism. Stealing from another's work is decidedly unhealthy. I remember a case which happened some years ago.

A professional writer wrote a mystery book for Random House. When it was published, a critic read it and had a sensation of déjà vu toward the middle of the book. Somehow, somewhere, he had read those words, those phrases, before.

He went back through a stack of old magazines. And there it was, in a copy of The New Yorker. He published the scene as written in the magazine, and the same as published in the book.

The author went into shock. Random House recalled all copies of the book. The writer almost drove himself nuts trying to recall reading the original article and how, deep in his unconscious, he remembered it and used it almost word for word.

Was he trying to destroy himself? I doubt it. For a long time afterward he sat at a typewriter and went into a freeze. He began to fear that everything that crossed his mind had been published somewhere else.

There are also nuisance suits. True Story magazine survived four big lawsuits for publishing a story called "The Revealing Kiss." It told about a no-good rat of a character named Mark Hellinger who falls in love with a girl named Eleanor Samuels when he kisses her on her luscious, ruby red lips one night.

He marries her in spite of the fact that he knows she's going to have the baby of his best friend, Desmond Kennedy. Eleanor had an older sister, Agatha, who was addicted to strong drink and weak men.

A Broadway columnist named Mark Hellinger sued for $100,000, claiming he was defamed, although it is difficult to defame a columnist. A girl named Eleanor Samuels, living in Scranton, Pa., sued for $100,000. Wouldn't you know she had an older sister, Agatha? Agatha sued for $200,000.

A Desmond Kennedy sued for $100,000. After three years of litigation, Hellinger settled for $1,500. The others got nothing. The lawyers for True Story tried to convince Hellinger that he had been painted as a hero because he saved "a fallen woman."

I was an editor at Collier's magazine when a raw chunk of Bishop 11-14-75 plagiarism went through my fingers. It was a short-short story sold by a qualified author.

The plot concerned two men who shared a hospital room. The one whose bed was close to the window had a bad heart. The other man had sustained two broken legs, which were up in traction.

The heart patient used to look out the window and tell old broken legs what he saw. He described a lovely park below and the characters who walked through it. In particular, from day to day he described a beautiful nurse in white who walked a baby carriage through the park.

A young policeman stared into the carriage and complimented the nurse. After that, the policeman made sure he was in that park at the time that the nurse arrived with the perambulator. It became a romance.

Doctors told the man with the broken legs to press a buzzer for help if the heart patient had an attack in the night. After 10 days the attack came. The man with the broken legs wanted that window bed. He watched the heart patient writhe and moan. He did nothing.

The man died. In the morning, the one with the broken legs demanded the bed by the window. The nurses moved him. He looked out and saw what the heart patient had seen — a blank brick wall.

A columnist wrote to me: "Jim: Herewith a copy of the Bishop 11-14-75 blank wall story as I wrote it years ago." I checked. It was true. My boss told me to ask how much the columnist would take to settle the matter.

I asked. He wrote back: "No money, please. First I have to check to find out where I stole the story." ...

Appalachian Development Act Given Shove By Congressman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert E. Jones, D-Ala., said Wednesday he would push to work out House-Senate differences on a bill to renew the Appalachian Regional Development Act.

"Jones, who authored the bill, has been named by House Speaker Carl Albert to head House delegates to a conference with the Senate on the Appalachia legislation.

"Since 1965, many significant changes have occurred in Appalachia," the Alabama Democrat said. "The nation cannot afford to have this worthwhile effort lapse."

He noted that "incomes in the region have increased, the level of health care and quality of education have substantially improved, outmigration has been reversed and the number of jobs has grown."

Funds provided under the legislation would go to aid further health programs, vocational education, libraries, highways, sewage treatment facilities and industrial development.

Jones, chairman of the Public Works and Transportation Committee, also heads the House delegation to a conference on the $5 billion local public works jobs bill.

He estimated that the legislation, aimed to help the ailing construction industry, could provide as many as 500,000 new jobs in on-site construction and allied industries.

Such projects could include municipal offices, water and sewage treatment plants, along with health, education and social service facilities.

Jones said rapid action on both bills "will send a clear signal to the White House and to all the American people that this Congress is determined to break the spiral of unemployment that is still spreading hardship and distress throughout the nation after months and years of unfulfilled promises by the administration."

Layoffs Upheld By Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A court upheld Wednesday the firing last spring of 349 state highway workers, ruling that state departments have the power to lay off workers to accomplish budgetary cuts.

The decision by Judge George Tyack of Franklin County Common Pleas Court reversed the state Personnel Board of Review, which had decided against the Department of Transportation in the layoffs.

Transportation Director Richard Jackson originally laid off 607 employees but 349 of them filed appeals with the personnel board, which ordered them reinstated.

Tyack, in his ruling, said there was nothing in the records of the board hearing to indicate any political overtones in the layoffs.

"There is little doubt in the mind of this court that there was a far greater number of persons of a different political faith than that of the appointing authority affected by the termination," he said.

Tyack, however, said it was never the intention of the legislature to give the three-member board "unbridled power" in personnel decisions in each state department.

"This would remove, if such were the fact," Tyack said, "the right of any state agency to attempt to operate with some degree of business and fiscal judgment and make it subordinate to a three-man board which at all times consist of two members of one party and one of another."

The board voted 2-1 along Democratic party lines to reinstate the workers. An attempt by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees to keep Tyack from ruling on the issue failed.

Rap Policy Of Hospitals

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State Medical Board says it is alarmed by hospitals that allow unlicensed foreign physicians to practice medicine.

William J. Lee, board administrator, said Thursday that the board recently has received complaints of unlicensed foreign doctors illegally practicing medicine in Toledo, Belleaire and Cleveland.

"We don't have any statistics on this," Lee said, "but the board feels that there are a large number of unlicensed physicians working in hospitals in Ohio."

At a board hearing, the board urged Dr. Charles C. Berry, medical director of Forest City Hospital in Cleveland, to dismiss eight unlicensed foreign doctors employed at the hospital.

Board members said all they can do is issue warnings and that they have no authority to force hospitals to discharge the doctors.

The members said that although unlicensed doctors may be employed by hospitals, it is difficult to determine when they are employed as supervisors and when they actually begin to practice medicine.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester I. Coleman, M.D.

Can the family physician perform a neurological examination or must he always refer us to a specialist?

Mr. G. T., N.J.

Dear Mr. T.:

I was interested in the rest of your letter, which actually highlighted the real contribution that the family physician makes to the total health of a patient.

I should venture to speculate that 90 per cent of all neurological examinations are performed by the family physician and by the pediatrician.

It is only when they discover an unusual abnormality that they refer a patient to a specialist in neurology for more specific and intensive examination.

During every complete medical examination, the movement of the eyeballs, balance with the eyes open and closed, reflexes, vision and hearing are routinely checked.

This examination gives the doctor an excellent idea of the state of health of the so-called "12 cranial nerves." If any variation from normal occurs, then special studies by the nerve doctor, or neurologist, are needed to confirm any suspected neurological condition.

Is there a vaccine that can be used for people who have been exposed to tuberculosis?

Dear Mr. E.:

A jet flight does not exert any special bodily stress on those people who have duodenal or stomach ulcers.

Nevertheless, anyone who is in the midst of an acute attack should be wary of even this additional emotional burden. One's physician, of course, is in the best position to relieve one's anxiety in such a situation.

Mr. J. E., Va.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — There is a good possibility that sometime before the 1980s the conventional home mortgage, which usually means fixed monthly interest payments for 20 or 25 years, will become relatively unconventional.

While it still has its defenders, many and outspoken, it also has its critics, both borrowers and lenders, who maintain that the conventional mortgage is an inflexible instrument ill-suited to the times.

If lenders have their way it will be replaced by the variable rate mortgage, in which interest payments would rise or fall with the overall cost of money, much as do commercial bank lending rates.

Some borrowers, meanwhile, would like to see home mortgage payments adjusted to the pattern of earning power — relatively low payments in the early years, higher in the middle years, lower again as the borrower grows older.

Some lenders would like to have mortgage contracts renegotiated every five years, as they are in Canada. Other proposals also are being offered.

Said Carla Hills, secretary of housing and urban development, "We cannot be mesmerized by tradition. We have to think of what we might do to solve these problems."

Mrs. Hills' comment was made in an interview at the 83rd annual meeting of the U.S. League of Savings Associations, whose members are the nation's principal home mortgage lenders.

The savings and loan people, she commented, "have talked themselves into a dither over the need for the variable rate mortgage." And indeed the S&L people are in a dither. They say they need a variable rate in order to survive.

Their argument is this: these are unstable times economically. We are being asked to commit our funds at a fixed rate of interest for 20 or 25 years ahead, when we know nothing about what our own money costs will be that time.

Already, say the S&Ls, who make up the major portion of what is called the thrift industry, we are forced to hold mortgages made years ago at five per cent while we ourselves are forced to pay well over six per cent for funds to lend.

A commercial bank, by contrast,

Dear Miss B.:

A vaccine created by two scientists, Calmette and Guerin, is known as the BCG vaccine.

It was created a long time ago, but there never has been complete agreement about its use. Waves of enthusiasm come and go.

Now, for the first time, the United States Public Health Service has taken a stand in the BCG controversy. They believe that, in special cases, it should be used.

If you have been exposed to someone with tuberculosis your doctor may get specific advice from the Center of Disease Control in Atlanta, and from the United States Public Health Service as to the advantage of the use of BCG in your particular case.

Is it dangerous for someone with a duodenal ulcer to travel to Europe in a jet plane?

Dear Mr. E.:

A jet flight does not exert any special bodily stress on those people who have duodenal or stomach ulcers.

Nevertheless, anyone who is in the midst of an acute attack should be wary of even this additional emotional burden. One's physician, of course, is in the best position to relieve one's anxiety in such a situation.

Mr. J. E., Va.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — There is a good possibility that sometime before the 1980s the conventional home mortgage, which usually means fixed monthly interest payments for 20 or 25 years, will become relatively unconventional.

While it still has its defenders, many and outspoken, it also has its critics, both borrowers and lenders, who maintain that the conventional mortgage is an inflexible instrument ill-suited to the times.

If lenders have their way it will be replaced by the variable rate mortgage, in which interest payments would rise or fall with the overall cost of money, much as do commercial bank lending rates.

Some borrowers, meanwhile, would like to see home mortgage payments adjusted to the pattern of earning power — relatively low payments in the early years, higher in the middle years, lower again as the borrower grows older.

Some lenders would like to have mortgage contracts renegotiated every five years, as they are in Canada. Other proposals also are being offered.

Said Carla Hills, secretary of housing and urban development, "We cannot be mesmerized by tradition. We have to think of what we might do to solve these problems."

Mrs. Hills' comment was made in an interview at the 83rd annual meeting of the U.S. League of Savings Associations, whose members are the nation's principal home mortgage lenders.

The savings and loan people, she commented, "have talked themselves into a dither over the need for the variable rate mortgage." And indeed the S&L people are in a dither. They say they need a variable rate in order to survive.

Their argument is this: these are unstable times economically. We are being asked to commit our funds at a fixed rate of interest for 20 or 25 years ahead, when we know nothing about what our own money costs will be that time.

Already, say the S&Ls, who make up the major portion of what is called the thrift industry, we are forced to hold mortgages made years ago at five per cent while we ourselves are forced to pay well over six per cent for funds to lend.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — A federal court judge was asked Thursday by a defendant in an arson trial to order psychiatric examinations for a codefendant in the case.

Charles Moeller of Cridersville, Ohio, owner of a plant that was blown up last March, said in a motion that his former spiritual adviser and longtime friend, the Rev. David N. Bubar, "suffers mental infirmity."

The motion cited "the evergrowing appearance of Bubar's culpability...without logical or sane motive."

Moeller is president of the parent firm of Sponge Rubber Products Co., whose $10 million plant in Shelton, Conn., was destroyed by explosion and fire last March 1.

Moeller, Bubar and seven other persons are being tried on charges stemming from the firebombing.

Set Bid Opening On Grade Crossing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Department of Transportation will open bids on a railroad grade crossing elimination project northwest of Ravenna on Nov. 18. The project will receive federal aid.

They'll Do It Every Time

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

He Backs Off On Anniversary Bash

DEAR ABBY: We will have been married 10 years next January. Since we didn't have any fanfare when we were married, my husband promised that we would have a big blow-out on our 10th wedding anniversary.

I booked a band and hired a hall and made deposits on both. Now out of the blue, my husband says, "Cancel everything!" I asked him why, and he said, "I just don't want it."

I know it's not the money. Even if it were, I'm able to pay for it myself, as I have a good job.

I know there's no other woman. So what should I do?

I don't want to make him angry, but I really want this anniversary party, and I don't think he should go back on his word. Please guide me.

WANTS TO CELEBRATE

DEAR WANTS: Cool it for a while. He may have had a bad day. Don't mention the celebration until a month before the date. Then when he's in a good mood, hit him with your guest list and ask his approval and suggestions.

If he still balks, you'll have to cancel the band and hall and probably take a loss on the deposits. You can't very well have an anniversary party without him.

Good luck. I'm in your corner.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21-years-old and my boyfriend is 20. We've been going steady for a year and three months.

Being a very up-front gal, I told my boyfriend all about my past, and it just so happens that I have gone to bed with more guys than he has gone to bed with girls.

He wants to marry me, but he says

first he wants to even the score.

Should I just sit around and wait for him to catch up with me?

J.

DEAR J.: If you do, you are even more immature than he is, which in my opinion is far too immature for marriage!

DEAR ABBY: We have a boss in our office who has got to be the world's most conservative man.

Although he has a car, he won't buy a second car for his wife. Instead, he has her drive him to work every morning, and every evening around quitting time, it's like Russian roulette to see who he asks to drive him home.

Since we all need our jobs, we never turn him down, but after two years of this, it's really an imposition. (Some of us have taken to hiding around quitting time so we won't be asked.)

We are all tired of driving out of our way to accommodate him, but nobody has the nerve to tell him how we feel about it.

Can you help us?

UNPAID CHAUFFEURS

DEAR CHAUFFEURS: Compose a letter advising the boss that the office crew has just gone out of the taxi business-and have everyone in the office sign it. I doubt that he'll fire the entire office force en masse. (P.S. If that doesn't work, put in an expense account for mileage.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: What are you doing Saturday night? If you want to see me, I'll be on the Miss Teenage America telecast on NBC. ABBY

Veterans Questions Answered

EDITOR'S NOTE: Each week the Herald will publish a series of Questions and Answers of interest to veterans. These questions and answers are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County veterans service officer. Any veteran desiring information concerning his Veterans Administration benefits should contact the Veterans Service Officer in the basement of the Pickaway County Court House.

(Q) I'm eligible for a GI loan, and wonder if the Veterans Administration will guarantee a loan for both a mobile home and land to place it on?

(A) Yes. The maximum guaranty for mobile homes is $10,000. But if the loan includes site acquisition, it can be increased to $17,500.

(Q) I was discharged from military service June 15, 1966. How long do I have to enter on-job training?

(A) Veterans discharged since January 31, 1955, now have 10 years from date of last separation or until August 30, 1977, whichever is later, to complete, farm cooperative or on-job training.

(Q) Isn't there some type of National Service Life Insurance available from the VA to veterans with service connected disabilities?

(A) Veterans separated from service on or after April 25, 1951, with a service connected disability which would be compensable if 10 per cent or more in degree, and who are otherwise insurable, may apply to the VA for special nonparticipating life insurance. The veteran must be in good health except for service connected disabilities. Application must be made within one year from the date of notice granting a veteran service connection for any if discharged less than one year; otherwise, VA Form 29-4364 should be completed.

(Q) A relative of mine passed away about 10 years ago. He was in WW II. No application was ever made for a Government Headstone for his grave. Is it too late to do so now?

(A) No, it is not too late. An application for a Government Headstone may be made at any time.

(Q) I am a WW II veteran. I have never converted my Government Life Insurance. What's the score on this?

(A) If a WW II veteran has not converted his Government Life Insurance by now, he does have problem. And that problem is the high cost of covering. However, in recent years the VA has come up with a new type of insurance called "Modified Life" which may possibly be of interest to you. I would suggest that any veteran who has not yet converted his Government Life Insurance come into the office to discuss this matter. There are things which can be done concerning the raise in premiums which occur every 5 years.

On Books And Activities At The Library

A library can be as diverse as the people it serves. Your Pickaway County District Public Library attempts to offer material to meet a wide range of interests. We hope you're not overlooking the service it can perform for you.

Our daily newspaper rack has acquired a new paper through a gift subscription. "The Christian Science Monitor" is noted for unbiased reporting. Everyday the "Monitor" puts you in touch with a wide range of topics. And did you know that in addition to our local paper, we have weeklies for the hobbyists, the Sunday "New York Times" and the "Wall Street Journal?"

Another popular corner is our record collection. We're adding some interesting new albums this week. "American Indian Dances," "Music of American Indians," "Songs and Dances of Great Lake Indians" are three albums which should see a lot of use.

Tolkien fans will enjoy hearing the popular author read and sing his "Hobbit" and "The Lord Of The Rings" on 2 unusual LP albums.

James Mason reads four classic ballads on his new album headed by "The Ballad of Reading Gaol" by Oscar Wilde.

Dylan Thomas reads his own poetry from "Adventures In The Skin Trade" while E. E. Cummings reads his "Collected Poetry and Prose" on a new album.

Records to be listened to on a dark night might include "Dracula" read by David McCallum and Ray Bradbury's "The Martian Chronicles" read by Leonard Nimoy.

"Rudyard Kipling Poetry," "Tales of King Arthur and His Knights," "Excerpts from Moby Dick" are three more new listening treats.

Of course, if you prefer music, that's available too.

Our large print collection is becoming more and more popular as people discover the new titles in a print suitable for anyone with an eye problem. Hans Holzer is a popular psychic researcher. His "Great British Ghost Hunt" is a fascinating journey into the world of the unknown.

Ben Logan's biography "The Land Remembers" is a warm story of a man's cherished memories. If you know someone who has given up reading because of small print, why not introduce them to one of these large print volumes?

If you're interested in art as an artist, two new titles are worth looking at. Herb Olsen's "Guide To Watercolor Landscape" and "Anatomy: A Complete Guide For Artists" by Joseph Sheppard are full of good information.

Another book dedicated to art form is "Perception And Photography" by Richard Zakia. The author relates Gestalt laws of perception to photography, art and design.

Coin collectors can now check the 1976 edition of "A Guide Book of United States Coins" by R. S. Yeoman and "Contemporary World Gold Coins" by Sanford J. Durst.

Indian lore is a popular subject in this area. "American's Ancient Treasures" by Franklin Folsom is a guide to archeological sites and museums of Indian lore. It contains many good illustrations.

The Bicentennial has inspired many people to pursue a reading program about our country's growth. "The Spirit Of '76" by Carl Bridenbaugh traces the growth of American patriotism before independence, 1607-1776.

Ernest and Trevor Dupuy have written a concise and informative guide entitled "an Outline History Of The American Revolution."

True gardeners garden year-round. "The Grafters Handbook" by R. J. Garner explains the process for plant grafting and contains many good illustrations.

"Companion Plants" by Helen Philbrick and Richard Gregg is a fascinating little book on some of nature's peculiarities.

Dog lovers won't want to miss "Dogs And Their Ways" with a text adapted by Pola Weiss from A. E. Brehm. The photography is sure to delight the dog fancier.

For some local recipes, be sure to see "Roundtown Recipes" presented to the library by Berger Hospital Guild No. 52.

Whether you're planning to adopt a child, coach a basketball team, or interview a job applicant, there's a new book this week to help you meet your need.

We're more than just an entertaining novel, we're a whole storehouse of ideas and information. Never underestimate your Pickaway County District Public Library.

Academic Calendar Rejected By BGSU Chief

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Bowling Green State University President Hollis A. Moore has rejected a proposed academic calendar for 1976-77 that would have featured a five-week break between fall and winter quarters.

Instead he approved a calendar similar to the present one, calling for a three-week break in December and January, rather than the five-week calendar approved earlier by the Academic Council.

News Of Interest To Women

6 The Circleville Herald, Friday November 14, 1975

Miss Cathryn C. Forbes Bride Of Andy R. Russel

MRS. ANDY R. RUSSEL

In a candlelight ceremony Miss Cathryn C. Forbes became the bride of Mr. Andy R. Russel on Oct. 18, in Putnam Congregational Church of Marietta.

The Rev. Wayne Jacobson performed the double ring service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Forbes Sr., 120 Woodcrest Drive Marietta, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Hamman, Route 2, Williamsport.

The sanctuary was decorated with altar vases holding arrangements of yellow and bronze Fuji chrysanthemums, two candelabra backed with cibetium palms, and candles in each window. Family pews were marked with tallisman satin bows. A program of pre-nuptial selections was presented by Mrs. Dean Cummings, organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and mother. She appeared in a white formal length gown of angel silk accented with brussels lace. The bodice featured a V-neck with venise lace edging, empire waistline and straight sleeves with a ruffle at the wrists. A double ruffle edged the hemline of the skirt flowing softly into a chapel train. A lace edged band held the bride's fingertip veil of silk illusion and she carried an autumn glory bouquet of butterscotch pompon mums and yellow sweetheart roses tied with a tallisman satin ribbon bow. Her jewelry was pearl earrings and necklace.

Miss Susan Forbes was maid of honor for her sister. She wore an autumn gold floor length gown featuring an empire bodice, V-neckline with a pleated ruffle and gold and rust flowered lace edging. She carried a natural straw basket fill with

PTO News

PICKAWAY TWP. PTO
The November meeting of the Pickaway Twp. Parent Teacher Organization was held Nov. 6 in the school auditorium. Devotions were led by the Dwight Hershey family and the pledge to the flag by Tony Smallwood, a fifth grader. Roll call was won by the fifth grade.

The 1975 Little Miss Pickaway Trophy was presented to Christy Judy for representing the school in the parade at the Pumpkin Show. Mrs. Sharon Peters, chairman of the Halloween Carnival, reported a profit of $600.

Mrs. Jean Mills, president, reported that gloves, hats, coats and sweaters are needed for the welfare closet at school.

There will be no December meeting of the PTO due to the Christmas program to be presented by grades one through three. It will be held the afternoon of December 18.

The annual spaghetti supper will be held Feb. 7, 1976. Refreshments of apple pie and pumpkin pie were served by Mrs. Tom Lutz, Mrs. Orville Gifford and their committee.

Winners of the pie baking contest were: Apple pie — 1. Linda Wolfe; 2. Marcella Felkey; 3. Nancy Mayberry. Pumpkin pie — 1. Virginia Gifford; 2. Nancy Mayberry; 3. Susan Spangler.

Kenneth Thompson, superintendent of Pike County schools, presented the program. He was one of a group of 27 educators chosen to tour Russian Schools. One of the main points he stressed was that only one of every seven Russians has the opportunity to attend college.

Bernardin Marked For Red Hat

NEW YORK (AP) — A man obviously marked for the next "red hat" in American Roman Catholicism, Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin, is giving the church new, distinctly open and progressive leadership.

"Commitment to people," "broad consultation," "sensitive listening," "new ways," "prophetic witness," "openness"—these are among the clear lineaments of his style.

"I am completely committed to an open church," he says. "We should have open processes of discussing and reaching conclusions on all issues."

Bicentennial Package Given
To School Music Departments

A "last call" to high schools and colleges in the Pickaway County area which have not yet requested JC-Penney's Bicentennial gift of American music was issued today by Dick Allen, Manager of the Circleville Penney's store.

"So far, three high schools and one junior high in the Pickaway County area have received their sets of the Bicentennial Musical Celebration," Allen, said. "We want to be sure that every school with a band, orchestra or choral group receives its package of music before our supply runs out."

To date, more than 24,000 schools throughout the United States and Puerto Rico have received the Bicentennial Musical Celebration as a gift from JCPenney in honor of our country's 200th birthday. There are about 30,000 high schools and colleges in the United States.

In addition, several thousand Celebration sets have been presented to churches, choral societies, Girl Scout and Boy Scout organizations, police and fire department bands and public libraries. The United States Information Agency has requested and received 85 complete sets for its key posts overseas.

The Bicentennial Musical Celebration contains 35 selections consisting of 70 minutes of music specially arranged to recapture America's past and 30 minutes of newly-commissioned works by contemporary American composers. None of it is available from commercial sources. All of it is scored in sheet music form with parts for full band, choral group or orchestra. Music for rock and jazz groups is included as well as folk songs, madrigals and band music dating as far back as 1770.

Many of the band and choral selections have been recorded by Columbia Masterworks in an album entitled "A Bicentennial Celebration,"

As the new president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, the Cincinnati archbishop presides for the first time next week over their annual Washington, D.C., meeting, exercising a key role in the church's directions.

"The shape of U.S. Catholicism over the next 25 years depends on how he uses his power and manages the consensus of bishops," writes priest-psychologist, the Rev. Eugene C. Kennedy, of Chicago, in a close-up analysis of the bishop.

Characterizing him as "a measured man, a man in control," "patient," "open," a "southern gentleman," with featuring the world renowned Gold-man Band and a mixed chorus under the direction of Leonard DePaur of New York City's Lincoln Center.

Distribution of the music packages will continue until the supply is exhausted. Schools which have not requested sets may do so by contacting Allen.

Man Under Indictment
In Brutal Slaying

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The Summit County grand jury indicted Larry Favors, 20, of Kent Wednesday on charges of aggravated murder, aggravated robbery and kidnaping in connection with the August 1974 slaying of Timothy Murphy of Kent.

Prosecutor Charles Kirkwood said the body of the 21-year-old Murphy was found in Green Township with seven bullet wounds in the head.

"incisive intelligence," "strong will" and "good progressive credentials," Father Kennedy writes in the U.S. Catholic.

"He seems attuned to his own psyche the way an expert mechanic is tuned to the motor's hum."

It is almost inevitable that he will be the next U.S. bishop made a cardinal. "A very modern churchman, representative of a new and alert kind of bishop," says Archbishop Jean Jadot, the Pope's representative in this country.

Archbishop Bernardin, 47, a six-foot, soft-spoken man, reared in the South, comfortable to talk with, has a gentle manner, but a forthright way of confronting thorny issues in church and society.

The church must never "hesitate to speak out on behalf of the values it espouses, even at the risk of making itself unpopular," he says.

He himself often has taken controversial stands, opposing U.S. military actions in Vietnam, condemning racism, economic injustice, anti-Semitism, urging respect for the "religious significance" of Jewish ties to Israel.

On the smoldering issues of allowing for married priests and the ordination of women, he says he doesn't see any way around the obstacles at the present time, but "we need to continue studying" the problems.

"We won't abandon people, no matter what," he emphasized in his discussion with Father Kennedy. "We are going to stick with people in their struggles. We are not going to judge them harshly or turn our backs on them."

"We want to help them find themselves and find happiness and we want to do this even with people who disagree with some of our teachings."

Ohio State Adopts Academic Calendar

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University has adopted an academic calendar calling for autumn opening dates ranging from Sept. 19 to Sept. 23 over the next five years. It becomes effective next fall, when the autumn term begins Sept. 21 and ends Dec. 3.

President Harold L. Enarson emphasized it could be reworked if a severe energy shortage makes a change mandatory.

Although twice put down for the count by sickness that threatened his life and ministry, he discovered to carry on a worldwide outreach that takes him on an exhausting schedule that includes evangelistic campaigns in all parts of the nation and abroad.

Less than a century and a quarter have passed since that terrible winter when Florence Nightingale ministered to suffering British soldiers. Until then there had been no place for women nurses in military hospitals, and not many women nurses anywhere.

Boys and girls see themselves as amateur adults. Through their imagination they often show us the world they would like to live in.

Their hopes can become a reality if we support our churches with our faith and our families. After all, it was the Founder of Christianity who insisted that He came not to be ministered unto, but to minister.

LEARNING TO CAMP — Rosemary Flowers, second from right, is instructing Girl Scout leaders on the proper way to camp. From the left are Katie Wamsley and Claudette Hershey of Troop 904, Edna Nothstine of Troop 931, and Cay Cook of Troop 944. The session, held Thursday at the Lutheran Church Parish House, dealt with administrative responsibilities, proper formation of bed rolls, and knot making. A session will be held Thursday at the Emmett Chapel Church to demonstrate how to build fires and erect tents.

State Economic Meet Readied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A postelection "economic conference" was close to reality today following agreement between Democratic legislative leaders on a format. But involvement of the Gov. James A. Rhodes administration remained in doubt.

Seek Terrorists In Jerusalem Blast Fatal To 6 Persons

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli police held about 200 Arabs for questioning today as they hunted Palestinian terrorists who planted a bomb in central Jerusalem that killed six persons and wounded 48. An American tourist was among the injured.

Roadblocks, patrols and other security measures in the Israeli capital were increased. The bomb ripped through Jerusalem's main business street, Jaffa Road, on Thursday, the first anniversary of Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasir Arafat's speech to the United Nations General Assembly.

The bomb exploded in a Bulgarian food shop about 7 p.m. as crowds converged on the center of the city for evening entertainment. Police said the bomb apparently was in a package placed on a porter's dolly.

The blast sent bodies flying and left the street littered with the dead and wounded and shards of glass from shattered windows.

The Popular Democratic Front, an offshoot of the radical Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, claimed in Beirut that it was responsible for the blast. The general command of the guerrilla forces in Beirut and the PLO in Damascus issued statements saying Palestinian guerrillas were responsible without specifying the PDF.

The bomb went off a few yards from Zion Square, where last July a refrigerator packed with explosives blew up and killed 15 persons. Police said three men and three women were killed and that 13 of the injured were in serious condition.

"I saw fire and a heard a loud bang," said Lola Nunberg, 53, of Brooklyn, N.Y., who suffered a minor leg injury. "I fell down and someone was trying to pick me up because I couldn't walk. I was sitting on the ground with blood all around me."

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said Thursday the conference next month would include "members of the House and Senate and members of the executive branch of government." But he conceded it

The only other foreigner known to be among the victims, Gerhard Van Drent, 47, of Rotterdam, Holland, said he was knocked against a car and suffered cuts on his leg.

"I saw a dead man close to me and people were trying to pick me up," he said. "I told them, 'I'm all right, I'm not injured,' but they helped me and put me in an ambulance."

An hour before, police disarmed an 11-pound bomb in the crowded Mahane Yehuda market, scene of several previous terrorist blasts.

The bombing occurred after a week of riots and demonstrations by Palestinian students in the occupied West Bank. They were protesting Defense Minister Shimon Peres' proposal to give the West Bank self-rule but to bar the PLO from the area.

Bargaining Plan Set Next Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A collective bargaining proposal will be written next year for introduction into the General Assembly by the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association, representing 35,000 members.

The legislature failed Wednesday to override a veto by Gov. James A. Rhodes on a collective bargaining measure passed this year.

"It is not a question of whether or not we get collective bargaining," said Karl E. Stewart, association executive director, at a news conference, "it is simply a question of when."

Stewart said that public sector labor relations would remain in a state of confusion until a collective bargaining procedure is established to set up a structured procedure for resolving employer-employee problems.

Chillicothe served as capital of the Northwest Territory from 1800 to 1802.

was not yet clear what role Rhodes' representatives would be given, if they agree to participate.

However, Riffe's Senate counterpart, Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, said the governor's people would be nonvoting observers. "They can sit with the group and ask questions," he said.

Thomas J. Moyer, Rhodes' top aide, said he "doubted very much that we would sit as members of a committee if we couldn't actively participate."

Moyer, who admitted he had reservations about the conference after meeting with Riffe earlier in the week, emphasized, however: "We will certainly provide whatever resources we can. That's an offer that will stand regardless of the format."

In a Nov. 7 news conference, Riffe proposed the economic skill session, saying it would "call on economists, labor leaders, business leaders and representatives of other groups to identify where we stand in terms of our economic strengths."

The Democratic leader, who remained neutral on Rhodes' bond package, said conferees would not aim for specific alternatives to the governor's plan, but would attempt to evaluate the state's economic health.

Riffe planned to meet Monday with the chairmen of the House Economic Affairs and Federal Relations Committee and the Senate Finance Committee to work out details. Both panels are dominated by Democrats.

He also planned another meeting with Moyer.

The conference is expected to begin meeting in early December, Riffe said, and attempt to return recommendations to the legislature by Jan. 31. Democratic Lt. Gov. Richard F. Celeste, who, like Ocasek, vigorously opposed the bond package, has not been invited to join the conference.

Celeste is not directly involved in the legislative process, although he presides over Senate floor sessions.

The lieutenant governor said Thursday the state should return "to existing statutes and current tax revenues to see how we can use these tools."

"Our citizens made it unmistakably clear that they do not trust the state's leadership — and I mean all of us — with large sums of hard-earned tax dollars," he said.

Celeste said he had written to Rhodes offering his cooperation in dealing with current economic problems. There has been little contact between the two men since each took office last January.

Cancer Link With Water Not Found

CINCINNATI (AP) — A University of Cincinnati study reported it found no direct link between Cincinnati's drinking water and a high incidence of cancer, but the report apparently agreed with the EPA that a better purification system might be needed.

The U.S. Environmental Protection last year reported cancer-causing chemicals in the drinking water of city water systems along the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. The EPA also tied the findings to high rates of cancer in cities from Cincinnati to New Orleans.

The UC report, sought by Cincinnati City Council, was prepared by the divisions of Epidemiology and Biostatistics and presented to Cincinnati Health Commissioner Dr. Arnold Leff.

The report said "an enormous array of organic chemicals" can be found in Cincinnati's drinking water and some "may cause cancer in humans" or may be otherwise detrimental to health.

However, the report claimed "scientific evidence of any problem in Cincinnati is at best suggestive." The university study said a more effective purification system would reduce the organic content in drinking water.

The study concluded that further studies were needed to determine what the cause or causes of cancer might be.

Dr. Leff said further studies were planned in cooperation with the UC Medical Center, which will seek a grant from the National Cancer Institute to probe the area's high cancer death rate.

Leff said such a study must go beyond examining cancer death rates to include cancer incidences.

"When we talk about cancer death rates in the 1960s-1970s, we're talking about probable causal effect that occurred in the 1930s-1940s," Leff said.

The EPA report noted that water systems in the concerned areas all used chlorine to purify water. However, when the chlorine mixed with some industrial chemicals dumped into the river, cancer-causing chemicals were developed like carbon tetrachloride and chloroform.

The EPA recommended use of carbon filtration systems in treating the water.

Old Purse Found From 1946 Wedding

CINCINNATI (AP)—For a while this week, Sylvia Fasbinder of Oldenburg, Ind., was 24-years-old again as memories flooded back with the return of a purse she lost at a farm wedding party in 1946.

"I still don't believe it," said the mother of four-grown children as she fondled the tarnished pig-skin purse turned up in a housecleaning project at a Cincinnati home.

"It brings back memories...the people I met," she said, eyeing the photographs and slips of paper, all still in good condition.

Several weeks ago, Mrs. Howard Bradtmueller found a collection of rocks she and friends dug up on a fossil hunting trip in 1946. She had forgotten she found the purse.

Mrs. Bradtmueller decided to, at long last, find the owner and addressed a postcard to Sylvia Marie Baker, Mrs.

Fasbinder's maiden name, at her old address in Metamora, Ind.

Mrs. Fasbinder explained that Metamora, being a small town, the postalworkers knew who the letter was meant for and forwarded the card to her in Oldenburg.

"This is really a voice from the past," it said. Back in 1946 when a group of us were prospecting for fossils, your purse was found. It was mislaid among the rocks, but has come to light. If this card reaches you, will you please write and let us know so we can send you this wallet, weather-beaten, but its contents intact."

Mrs. Fasbinder, after an exchange of letters, drove to Cincinnati for her purse.

"I still don't believe it," she repeated. "I almost fainted" fingering the pictures of old friends and relatives still in military uniforms, one of herself as a curly-haired youngster, and an old grocery bill listing steak at 57 cents, wieners 17 cents, pop at five cents and coffee at 17 cents. There were also four one-dollar bills, silver certificates.

Late returning or not, Mrs. Fasbinder was happy with her returned memories and a new opinion of her fellow human beings.

"You think the world is all a bunch of crooks. This brings new light. How many people would say 'Ah, I won't bother, I'll just throw it away.'"

"If the Bradtmuellers weren't honest people, they could have kept the old money and thrown the old wallet away."

"Maybe this story will make other people honest."

Memorial Airport News

Airport Manager

Hello, Dere! Beautiful weather we're having, isn't it? Well, there's one thing you can say for sure about Ohio's weather and that is, if you don't like what it's doing now, wait a few minutes and it will change.

And, by golly, we've had another student solo. Yes, sir, Dave Greenlee soloed on Monday, Nov. 10. As you all know, Dave is our resident hippy and a part-time member of this institution of higher yearning. Good work, Dave.

Also on Saturday, Nov. 1, Gerald Woolsey, another of our infamous crew of trainees, received his private pilots license. Gerald hails from Richmond, Va., and is employed at DuPont. When Gerald uses the aircraft radio and asks the tower "Which runway ya all usin?" you can rest assured he receives prompt attention. Good work, Gerry.

We've got another one of those mystery students again. Only thing is, this time her husband knows but she doesn't want anyone else to. Well, my lips are sealed now but not for long. Hello there mystery student.

Gotta run, see you all next week.

Tipps Denies Pressure For Veto

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Democratic Chairman Paul Tipps asked Senate Democrats to sustain a veto by Gov. James A. Rhodes while acting as a "constituent" and not as a lobbyist, he says.

Tipps said he asked Sens. Neil F. Zimmers Jr., D-5 Dayton, and Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, to let stand the Republican governor's veto of a bill requiring smoke detectors in high rise buildings 75 feet or more in height, about seven floors.

The state chairman is a partner in a firm that is involved in a nine-story apartment complex in Dayton which is being subsidized by the federal government.

Although both voted for the bill originally, Hall and Zimmers said they acted independent of Tipps when they changed their votes and upheld the veto when the Senate sustained it Oct. 21.

Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, said he received a letter from Tipps, asking him to withdraw his support of the bill, but thought little about it since the letter came from Tipps "as a builder."

Tipps said he discussed the legislation with Hall and Zimmers "as one of their constituents", and that the federal government would have had to pay for the smoke detectors had the bill passed. "All it would have done is increase my tax shelter," he added.

In the letter to Ocasek, Tipps predicted that the bill, if passed, would "impose a costly requirement on the owners of such builders that ultimately would be paid for by tenants through higher rents."

The Adena, Hopewell and Fort Ancient Indian cultures, collectively called the Moundbuilders, flourished in Ohio from 800 B.C. to 1500 A. D.

Grange Opposes Forced Busing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Opposition to forced busing was repeated by the National Grange, a farm and rural community organization, at its 109th annual session Thursday.

Taft Attacks Lengthened Daylight Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr. says no significant energy saving is provided by eight months of Daylight Saving Time.

Taft, R-Ohio, also told the Senate Commerce Committee on Thursday that no federal agency reviewing the measure can find any significant advantage.

"Every study has shown that year-round or eight-month Daylight Saving Time produces little real energy savings," Taft said. "The people of Ohio are willing to take any meaningful step to become independent of foreign energy sources."

The committee is evaluating the annual eight months of Daylight Saving Time and four months of standard time.

Taft cited the final report of the Daylight Saving Time issued by the Department of Transportation that the imposition of the eight-month stretch would bring about a one per cent reduction in the electrical load.

"This is not meaningful energy savings. This saving of one per cent of our electrical consumption translates into .6 of a per cent of our daily consumption of 17 million barrels of oil per day," Taft said.

"The tragedies which have occurred as a result of winter DST cannot be justified or rationalized on the basis of nominal conservation of fuel. The safety of our children must come first. They are our most valuable resource."

Solicitation Campaign Started By Colleges

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The annual solicitation campaign of the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges will be held here Tuesday through Thursday, with presidents of 12 colleges among solicitors.

Thirty-three colleges are involved in the campaign. Working in teams of two, independent college personnel will call upon businesses in the Dayton area.

The Grange said it "opposes massive busing of school children for any purpose other than to achieve quality education." A similar resolution has been adopted for the past five years.

It encouraged local granges to "explore the possibility of addressing unpopular busing mandates by the use of referendums."

On other topics, the Grange resolved:

—Teacher Strikes: "The Grange supports binding arbitration when negotiations between teacher organizations and school boards reach an impasse...That when teacher contracts are renewed and signed that it be unlawful to strike during the school year."

—Medical Malpractice: "The high cost of medical care has become a burden to all, especially those on low and fixed income...Malpractice insurance rates be reasonably adequate for the companies writing coverage, the cost of malpractice insurance be borne by the deliverer of medical services."

—Media: "We strongly believe a significant number of television programs and advertisements are indecent, saturated with scenes of sex and violence, and the use of profanity and vulgarity are highly distasteful for family viewing."

—Marijuana: "That we are opposed to legalizing the use of marijuana and the liberalizing of penalties for the possession or sale."

The convention, which runs through Nov. 18, is expected to draw a total of 15,000 participants from 38 states.

Awards presented Thursday went to:

—Rita Steiner, Weston, Conn., best of the show award in the sewing contest.

—Jeanette Lewis of Lebanon, Ohio, director of women's activities for the Ohio State Grange, selected women's activities "Director of the Year."

—Iva Craft, York Haven, Pa., first place in the patchwork pillow contest.

Teacher Is New At CJHS

MISS SARA BARNES

By JODY LINN

"I want my students to feel good about themselves and be glad that they are human beings," says Miss Sara Barnes, a new remedial reading teacher at the junior high school.

Miss Barnes is a 1968 graduate of CHS and attended Ohio State University, where she earned a bachelor of science degree in education. She intends to go back to OSU to work toward a masters degree in reading this summer.

Remedial reading is designed for the student that is 1½ years below his present reading level. Miss Barnes feels that her students are very open, friendly, and honest. She wants to make reading enjoyable and interesting to her pupils. She tries to make up games and use creative dramatics in her lessons.

Miss Barnes said she was impressed with the faculty at CJHS. She likes their friendliness, dedication, and positive attitude toward all the students.

She enjoys reading, cooking, and swimming in her spare time. Miss Barnes has just moved into a new apartment on Main Street which keeps her busy at this time also.

Guidance Guidelines

The 1976 Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation Seminar is an approved leadership contest open only to sophomores. This seminar, scheduled for April 3-10 in Washington, D. C., will be attended by outstanding sophomore boys and girls from each state.

CHS sophomores who can demonstrate strong leadership qualities in their homes, school, or community are encouraged to check into the program in the guidance office.

Sophomores and juniors received orientation to the Pickaway-Ross Vocational Center this week by Ray Pack, guidance supervisor of the center. The 20 two-year program offerings and three one-year programs were described and a preliminary interest survey was taken among sophomores and juniors. They were also informed of the open house program the Vocational Center is sponsoring this Sunday from 1-5 p.m.

While foreign languages have been receiving less emphasis as a subject requirement for college admission, they are becoming more important in various career fields. The University of Cincinnati is beginning a new program for languages majors, which provides a certificate in business administration with an international option. This is an attempt to provide language majors with other career alternatives besides teaching careers. Further information on this program may be obtained from one of the CHS language teachers.

Miami University announced that all 1975 graduates of their pulp and paper program had received employment in the paper industry. Scholarships are available through the Miami University Pulp and Paper Foundation.

DAVID WHITEHEAD

By BILL ANCIKA

David Whitehead, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Whitehead, is a new student at CHS. He comes from Hamilton Township in Columbus and resides at 593 Sycamore Drive here in Circleville.

David is involved in the band, playing the tuba, and in the stage band, playing the electric bass. His interests are in sports and music. He also works at Rickenbacker Air Force Base. He plans to major in law at Ohio State University.

When asked about CHS, he responded, "It's a better school than what I came from; the educational system is more advanced, and school spirit seems to be more intense."

Payne, Christy Chosen Captains

JOHN PAYNE AND BRETT CHRISTY
WRESTLING CAPTAINS

By LISA LEAHY

Seniors John Payne and Brett Christy have been chosen to be the 1975-76 wrestling captains. Both are SCOL champs and two-year lettermen.

John Payne has wrestled for four years, last year at 175, and has high hopes for his senior year. He commented, "With 11 returning lettermen, our team should do pretty well this year. We really want to win as many tournaments as possible, especially the SCOL and Teays Valley tournament."

Three-year wrestler, Brett Christy, has an equally enthusiastic outlook on the upcoming season. He added, "I think that the wrestlers would appreciate more support from the student body. It helps a lot of the guys do better when there are people cheering for them."

Brett has been an SCOL champion both his sophomore and junior year. Wrestling at 119, he hopes to win all of his matches and get to go to the state. The Tigers' first meet is with Teays Valley Dec. 4 at 6:30 p.m. in the Circleville gymnasium.

Mathews Averts Tiff With Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Health, Education and Welfare Secretary F. David Mathews avoided a possible contempt of Congress citation Wednesday when he turned over to a House subcommittee documents relating to hospital accreditation.

Mathews said he based his decision to hand over the subpoenaed papers on a ruling by the attorney general. He earlier had refused to give the House Commerce oversight and investigations subcommittee the documents, prompting talk of citing the secretary for contempt.

Mathews' action came one day after the panel voted to bring contempt proceedings against Commerce Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton for refusing to turn over papers disclosing which American firms had been asked by the Arabs to participate in a boycott against Israel.

Morton asserted his action was legal.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said, "The White House supports the decision of Secretary Morton and there is a legal opinion from the attorney general which likewise supports it."

Subcommittee Chairman John E. Moss, D-Calif., said he hoped Mathews' decision to give up the subpoenaed HEW materials would help convince Morton to do the same.

The HEW documents are surveys of 107 hospitals accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH).

Team Treated To Dinner

By DIANE GREEN

The Circleville High School Varsity and Reserve Football Teams enjoyed dinner at Famous Recipe following a homecoming victory over Washington Court House.

The entire teams, including coaches and managers, were treated by Harold Eggleton. Comments coming from Mr. Eggleton were that he felt the team is under much pressure on the field and this was one way to relieve it. He stated the team deserves much recognition for a job well done.

Rex B. Rumley, manager of the Famous Recipe Fried Chicken Store, commented, "I feel the Tigers have had a great season and it was an honor for us to serve them." Others present from Van-Orr Foods, Inc. were Don Cowgill, George Vallette, and manager-trainee Rick Weaver.

Captain Brent Mancini recognizes Mr. Eggleton as being "one of the Tigers top supporters. He deserves thanks from the entire football team."

Freedom Urged For Prisoners

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States has challenged all countries to release their political prisoners and apply to themselves the same standards they demand of Chile and South Africa.

"Unless we care about political prisoners everywhere, we don't really care about them anywhere," U.S. Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan said Wednesday, launching a human-rights offensive at the United Nations.

Coaches Name 13 Circleville Tigers To All-League Posts

ALL-LEAGUE GRIDDERS — Circleville High School football players who were picked to all-SCOL team are, from the left first row, Tom McGuire, Tim Hartinger, and Brent Mancini. In the second row are Tom England, Bryan Price, Frank Merrill, Tom Strawser, and Biff Bumgarner.

Thirteen Circleville High School athletes were honored at the South Central Ohio League's Fall Sports Banquet Thursday at Washington C. H. And the Tigers also brought home the 1974-75 All-Sports Trophy from the Banquet.

Honored athletes were Keith Sanders, Mike McKelvey, and Mike McCoy for the co-champion golf team; Nancy Radcliff and Sue Crist from the girls' volleyball squad; and Biff Bumgarner, Brent Mancini, Tom McGuire, Tim Hartinger, Frank Merrill, Tom England, Bryan Price, and Tom Strawser from the football team.

The football Tigers, finished a half game behind Miami Trace in the league race, led the selections for the All-League squad with five members on offense and three on defense.

The only Circleville repeater was premier tailback Biff Bumgarner, who was also selected as the honorary offensive captain.

Brian Haines of Washington C. H. and Greg Cobb of Miami Trace, both on the all-league squad a year ago, were again reporters on both offense and defense. Haines was also tabbed the honorary defensive captain.

Sophomore Gary Williams of

Wilmington was a double pick, being named as the kicking specialist on offense and one of the all-star halfbacks on defense.

Members of the All-League team are:

Miami Trace — Greg Cobb, senior offensive tackle and defensive linebacker; John Schlichter, senior tight end; Art Schlichter, sophomore quarterback; Rex Coe, junior running back; Steve Wilson, senior defensive lineman; and Bruce Ervin, senior cornerback.

Washington C. H. — Brian Haines, senior offensive guard and defensive lineman; David Thompson, senior tight end; Tim O'Flynn, senior defensive end; and Deway Foster, senior defensive halfback.

Greenfield — Chuck Conley, senior defensive lineman; and Jim Ganger, senior linebacker.

Unio — Dan Anders, senior running back; and Scott Brumfield, senior defensive end.

Wilmington — Gary Williams, sophomore place kicker and defensive halfback.

Hillsboro — Steve Kelch, senior cornerback.

Madison Plains — Pat Sullivan, junior defensive end.

Honorable mention team members were:

Miami Trace — Sam Grooms, junior center; Brad Smith, junior guard; and Rick Saunders, senior linebacker.

Circleville — Earl Stevenson, junior defensive lineman.

Washington C. H. — Bob Wilson, senior running back; and Randy Gardner, senior kicking specialist.

Greenfield — Tim Gossett, senior tight end; Joe Cannon, junior defensive lineman; Tim Gossett, senior defensive end; and Tony Anderson, junior defensive halfback.

Unio — Don Shaw, junior tackle.

Wilmington — Brian Williams, senior offensive guard; Gary Losey, junior tight end; Duane Early, senior quarterback; Russell Crosthwaite, senior running back; and Troy Burns, senior linebacker.

Hillsboro — Ken Captain, senior running back; Rick Wright, senior defensive end; Mark Ford, senior linebacker; and Rick Burns, senior defensive halfback.

Madison Plains — Jack Maggard, senior cornerback.

Circleville's golfers, who tied for the SCOL title with Wilmington at 10-2, were paced by Keith Sanders, who had a per round average of 38. Fred Hamilton of Greenfield tied the mark the Wolverines broke a 21-21 tie in the fourth quarter and smashed Northwestern 33-9 last Saturday.

"Our goal has been to get better every game," said Stoll. "We turned the corner against Iowa and we played Michigan to a standstill until late in the game."

Michigan is a 20-point favorite over Illinois but the Illini, who held Ohio State to only 13-3 until the game broke open late in the third quarter, will be at near full-strength this week.

Quarterback Kurt Steger missed the Ohio State game with a sore back but he will be available Saturday even if he does not start. In fact, the Illini will be at their healthiest since early in the season.

Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler, remembering last season's narrow 14-6 victory over Illinois, is concerned. "Lonnie Perrin and Jim Phillips are as good as any set of tailbacks as there are around. Illinois has improved up front and has three outstanding receivers."

Coach Bob Blackman of Illinois compares Michigan with Ohio State. "There is not much difference between the offensive styles of Ohio State and Michigan," said Blackman. "Their strengths are relatively the same. As a team, the Wolverines rank first in the conference in both total offense and total defense, and that speaks for itself."

Defensive tackle Ron Carpenter of the Cincinnati Bengals says a successful goal line stand provides the most fun in the world for a defensive alignment.

Knicks Turn Back Rockets

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Earl Monroe has a good point: you can't score from the bench.

"I only played five minutes," Monroe said, explaining why he only took two shots from the field and scored three points in the opening half of Thursday night's National Basketball Association game with the Houston Rockets.

"The Pearl" saw quite a bit more action in the final two periods, winding up with 23 points while leading the Knicks to a 108-102 victory, their first after five straight losses.

In other NBA games Thursday, Washington clipped Boston 110-107, Phoenix nipped Seattle 106-103 and Golden State defeated Chicago 98-87.

In the only American Basketball Association game played, San Antonio crushed Virginia 124-100.

Knicks 108, Rockets 102

"I got three quick fouls in the first period, so I figured I would sit out the rest of the first half," Monroe said. "But in the third period, I could go out and play my game."

Monroe, guarded mostly by Houston's Calvin Murphy, took the 5-foot-10 guard deep inside time and again, scoring on a variety of spinning jump shots.

New York had a balanced attack with Bill Bradley scoring 17 points, Spencer Haywood 16, Walt Frazier 14 and John Gianelli 13. Houston's Mike Newlin took scoring honors with 26 points, while Murphy added 22 and Joe Meriweather and Rudy Tomjanovich had 21 each.

Bullets 110, Celtics 107

Washington's Wes Unseld and Elvin Hayes sank free throws in the final 12 seconds to give the Bullets a narrow victory over Boston. The Celtics rallied in the final period, pulling from an 89-75 deficit going into the quarter to just one point down, 108-107, with 19 seconds remaining before Unseld and Hayes successfully hit from the free throw line. Phil Chenier, who scored 10 points in the final quarter, paced Washington with 24 points and Dave Bing added 22, while Boston's Charlie Scott led all scorers with 29.

Suns 106, SuperSonics 103

With Phoenix leading 104-103, the Suns' Paul Westphal blocked a Slick Watts shot and Phoenix recovered. Keith Erickson was then fouled intentionally, but he sank both free throws to ice the Suns' victory over Seattle. Dick Van Arsdale led Phoenix with 20 points while Bruce Seals and Leonard Gray scored 24 and 23 points, respectively, for the SuperSonics.

Warriors 98, Bulls 87

Held scoreless in the first period, Rick Barry exploded for 38 points to lead Golden State past Chicago. It was the Warriors' five straight victory and their seventh against two losses.

Spurs 124, Squires 100

Scoring 12 straight points late in the first period, San Antonio broke open the game and never trailed in handing Virginia its sixth consecutive defeat and 11th loss in its last 12 games. Billy Paulitz led the Spurs with 21 points while James Silas and George Gervin added 20 each as San Antonio posted its fourth win in a row.

Bruins Blank North Stars In NHL, 6-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Minnesota North Stars are the Minnesota No-Stars in Boston Garden.

They've never won a game in Boston and continued their bitter Garden frustration by dropping a 6-0 National Hockey League decision to the Bruins Thursday night.

As usual, the North Stars couldn't do anything right up there while the Bruins were doing everything they pleased — including three shorthanded goals, two by Brian Forbes.

"I don't think we extended ourselves hard tonight," said Boston Coach Don Cherry. "We'll have a better test in Atlanta Saturday night. It's on the road and they're a pretty good club."

Cherry was impressed with Forbes' work. Not only did he score the two goals, but was a valuable asset to the Bruins as a penalty-killer. And there were plenty of penalties to kill.

"This could be the making of Forbes as a penalty killer," Cherry said. "The goals were just gravy. He played with a lot of confidence. When he killed penalties before, he didn't seem to have a lot of confidence."

In the other NHL games, the Detroit Red Wings beat the Kansas City Scouts 6-3; the Montreal Canadiens trimmed the Pittsburgh Penguins 5-4; the Philadelphia Flyers and Chicago Black Hawks played to a 5-5 tie and the Los Angeles Kings nipped the New York Islanders 4-3.

The 1980 U.S. Open Golf championship will be held at the Baltusrol Golf Club in Springfield, N. J. Dates will be June 12-15.

Carpenter Spearhead For Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Times have changed for Ron Carpenter, long-known as the No. 2 defensive tackle next to Mike Reid on the Cincinnati Bengals defensive line.

Coach Paul Brown selected Reid, who retired this year, as his top draft choice out of Penn State. Reid, from North Carolina State, was No. 2. It stayed that way for five seasons, Carpenter No. 2.

"He was never underrated by us," said Brown of Carpenter, whose steady play is partially responsible for Cincinnati's 7-1 record this year.

"Reid did all the talking and made good newspaper copy, but to us, Carpenter was the consistent one," said Brown. "He never seems to have an off-week."

"Reid was an excellent pass rusher, but was very trappable. Ron isn't. He seems to have a knack for coming up with the big play."

"He's one of our leaders," said Brown.

The Bengals and Carpenter face a test Monday night when offensive-minded Buffalo invades Cincinnati.

Carpenter, a gentle, curlyhaired 250-pound giant, admits the swirl of publicity is something new.

"It feels good. Everybody has their own ego. I've always felt football is a form of entertainment. We're there to get applause. It's definitely a motivation," said Carpenter, of Thomasville, N.C.

Heavy Big Ten Scheduled Slated

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer

Ohio State's No. 1 Buckeyes and fourth-ranked Michigan have double problems this week. They must avoid complacency against big underdogs and they cannot afford the luxury of looking ahead to each other.

Ohio State entertains Minnesota and Michigan invades Illinois before the two major powers clash at Ann Arbor next week for the Big Ten championship and a trip to Pasadena and the Rose Bowl.

Elsewhere in the Big Ten Saturday, Northwestern is at Michigan State, Iowa at Purdue and Indiana at Wisconsin.

Ohio State is favored over Minnesota by 30 points. Although an upset is not likely, the Buckeyes must not take the Gophers too lightly. Minnesota quarterback Tony Dungy leads the Big Ten in passing and is 12th in the nation.

In six conference outings, Dungy has completed 84 passes for 1,029 yards with 11 touchdowns. He has exceptional receivers in Ron Kullas, who leads the Big Ten, and Mike Jones who is No. 3.

The Buckeyes lead the Big Ten or are second in most categories but in pass defense they rank fourth, allowing nearly 83 yards a game. Minnesota has averaged nearly 179 yards a game passing.

"We know what's there and we know what's waiting for us," said Minnesota Coach Cal Stoll. "But we are not scared. We have made progress and have been getting better all along."

Minnesota has been tough in the last three weeks. The Gophers defeated Iowa 31-7, lost to Michigan 28-21 when

Three Logan Elm Gridders Make All-Mid State Team

JEFF REICHELDERFER

BOB SARGENT

MARK KENNEDY

Logan Elm, the second place team in Mid State League football race this year, placed three players on the all league team announced this week.

Jeff Reichelderfer of Logan Elm was named the League's most valuable player in addition to earning a first team backfield berth. Also making the squad were quarterback Bob Sargent who assumed a starting role for the Braves in the fourth game of the season and offensive tackle Mark Kennedy.

The Mid State League's scholar athlete last year as a junior, Reichelderfer rushed for 1,315 yards in 186 carries, completed 10 of 21 passes for 166 yards and caught seven passes for 114 yards. Reichelderfer is an outstanding basketball and baseball player having also been acclaimed All-League in those two sports. He carries a 4.0 grade average and is president of the Pickaway County National Honor Society and a member of Quill and Scroll.

Sargent started seven games for the Braves, passing for over 600 yards and completing 49 per cent of his attempts. He was also effective as a runner for the Logan Elm squad.

Kennedy, an exceptionally strong guard, was the blocker who paved the way for most of the rushing yardage compiled by the Logan Elm team this fall. All three are seniors.

Canal Winchester's Mike Lock was chosen coach of the year and his undefeated Indians dominated the all-league with seven gridders named.

Three offensive linemen and two blocks from Winchester made the first team offense. The backs were Steve Crist and Matt Hartman. Crist is a junior and Hartman a senior. The linemen from the league championship team are end Neal Seymour, tackle Bill Allen and center Mark Hartman. Indians on the defense are Mark Hays and Gary Griffith.

Pickerington had four players named to the all-league team. They are Dave Noble, an end; Bill Sergakis, a guard on offense, and linebacker Brian McClaskie and defensive back John Barr.

Amanda-Clearcreek, Liberty Union and Bloom Carroll each placed two men on the coaches dream team. For the Aces the two are defensive standouts Tom Hinton a back, and John Rowley, the middle guard.

From Bloom Carroll, Dwight Turner a senior tackle, made it on offense and Brent Kadesch on defense. Greg Black, also of Bloom Carroll, was named the league's kicking specialist.

From Liberty Union, defensive end Tom Landis and defensive tackle Brett Landis were selected. Rounding out the squad were:

Steve Campbell, Millersport, and Bill Motter, Fisher Catholic. Berne Union, winless this year, failed to place anyone on the team.

Coliseum Awaits Decision By Spirits

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Riverfront Coliseum has a lease drawn up just in case the St. Louis Spirits of the American Basketball Association decide to move there but Brian Heekin, coliseum president, said he has heard nothing definite following talks earlier this week.

Harry Weltman, part owner and director of the spirits, went to New York for further talks with other stockholders after the Tuesday meeting here, according to Heekin.

Wittenberg, Muskingum Seek Title

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — "Worst" Wittenberg and "fearless" Muskingum collide Saturday at Baldwin-Wallace College in a rematch that will decide the Ohio Athletic Conference football championship. Unbeaten Wittenberg, a two-time

National Collegiate Athletic Association Division III champion, erased a 13-point deficit and tipped Muskingum 20-16 in a meeting earlier this season.

The Tigers went on to a 9-0 regular season mark, winning the OAC Red

Division title with a 4-0 record. Muskingum has stumbled through a 5-4 season, managing to play its best in OAC Blue Division action.

The Muskies matched Baldwin-Wallace with a 4-1 conference record, winning the division title on the basis of a 21-17 victory over the Yellowjackets.

Wittenberg got a boost this week when it received an invitation for a trip to the Division III championship playoffs win or lose Saturday.

No OAC representative ever has lost in NCAA postseason play since it was begun on the Division III level in 1969. Wittenberg beat William Jewell 27-21 that year in the first Amos Alonzo Stagg Bowl, the forerunner to the present division playoffs, and stopped San Diego and Juniata in 1972, the first Division III playoff.

Wittenberg Coach Dave Maurer entered the 1975 season as the nation's winningest active college division coach. His seven-year record at the Ohio school is 57-9-2.

Muskingum's Al Christopher has been less successful in six years as head man of the Muskies, going into the title game with a 26-28-1 record.

"As coaches, we never thought we would have the kind of year we've had this year," Maurer said. "This is the worst 9-0 team we've had at Wittenberg, but our kids have just done a fantastic job."

"I know that, as Al Christopher said, Muskingum does not fear Wittenberg," he added. "They didn't when they came down to play us in the third game, and I'm not sure that we don't fear them a little."

Christopher noted, "We'll have to play super football to be in it." Wittenberg beat Baldwin-Wallace 17-0 in the 1974 OAC championship game but failed to gain a bid to the postseason playoffs.

Led by senior quarterback Brian Aschenbrenner's passing and the strong running of freshman Dave Merritt, the Tigers have outscored their opponents 207-82 this season.

Aschenbrenner has connected on 68 of 133 attempts for 897 yards and one touchdown. He's had 10 passes picked off. Merritt has gained 536 yards and scored seven touchdowns in 109 carries.

Sophomore Muskingum quarterback Kevin Snyder has hit on only 52 of 114 passing attempts, with eight interceptions. But he has thrown for six touchdowns. Dave Caldwell leads the Muskie rushing attack with 793 yards and six touchdowns in 209 attempts, followed closely by Brent Mayo with 767 yards and six touchdowns in 161 tries.

Key MAC Game Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jerry Ippoliti, Northern Illinois' football coach, took one look at Central Michigan's statistics and reached a fast conclusion.

"I think Central Michigan is vulnerable to the pass," said Ippoliti of Saturday's key MidAmerican Conference game. "We're going to have to throw the ball 30 times."

The Chippewas, nearly impossible to run against, need a victory to wrap up second place in their first season in the MAC football chase.

Miami (Ohio), at Kent State Saturday, already has wrapped up its third straight conference title. The Redskins go after a league record 16th straight triumph against the Flashes and a final 6-0-0 MAC mark.

Eastern Michigan, the last of the expansion teams still ineligible in the race, travels to Western Michigan, winless in 10 games in Elliot Uzelac's first Bronco coaching season.

The game does not count in the conference standings.

Other nonconference dates have Bowling Green at Southern Illinois, Illinois State at Ball State and Cincinnati at Ohio University. Toledo takes the week off.

Central Michigan, 3-1-1 in the conference, has had an outstanding first year. The Chippewas lead the league in six of 10 categories.

The most impressive are their 9.5 point average yield and 85.8 rushing yards by opponents.

"When you play a football team like this," said Ippoliti, "you hope you can do something offensively to keep those individuals off the field."

Should Northern Illinois win, the Chippewas would tumble to fifth place behind already-finished Bowling Green and Ball State (both 4-2-0) and the Huskies (3-2-0).

Kent State could salvage some prestige in its disappointing 1-4-0 conference season by upsetting Miami. The Flashes were the last MAC team to whip the Redskins in the 1972 finale.

Meanwhile, Toledo quarterback Gene Swick cools his golden arm for a week before assaulting the national all-time total yardage record. Jim Plunkett, the former Stanford ace, holds the mark of 7,877 yards. Swick has 7,740.

Toros Top Spurs; Win WHL Tilt 11-8

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Denver Spurs haven't been scoring much of late and as a result, haven't been winning.

They finally started scoring Thursday night — but still aren't winning. The Spurs whacked in eight goals, but their defense was deplorable and that cost them an 11-8 decision to the Toronto Toros in a wide-open World Hockey Association game.

"It was a defenseman's nightmare and a goaltender's nightmare," noted Toronto Coach Bobby Braun.

Vaclav Nedomansky led the shelling on Denver's beleaguered goalmouth, knocking in five shots.

"I just play every game the same way," said Nedomansky, shrugging off his superman performance. "I try to skate good, shoot good and pass good. Sometimes it's just a good day for me."

After finally getting an explosive scoring game out of his team and still losing, Denver Coach Jean Guy Talbot was slightly shellshocked.

"We keep losing 3-2, 3-2, 3-2 and now tonight we get eight goals and lose the game," he said.

In the other WHA games, the Winnipeg Jets stopped the Calgary Cowboys 4-2 and the San Diego Mariners whipped the Cleveland Crusaders 3-1.

The Toros battered Denver goalies Bob Johnson and Nick Stanza for their 11 goals on only 27 shots. Nedomansky's performance, which tied a WHA record, also made him the league's leading goal scorer with 15 goals in 13 games.

The 19 goals scored by the two teams also established a league mark.

Pro Picker Sees Redskins Win

The figures under the roster column labeled "Age" tell us that the Washington Redskins are obviously too old to be running around on football fields. At their ages, these guys should be out in the parking lots, enjoying the tailgate parties, instead of banging heads every Sunday.

So the Redskins obviously have no business at or even near the top of the National Conference East Division. But that's where they are, grittily hanging on to a piece of first place.

The other piece belongs to the young St. Louis Cardinals, whose high-powered offense keyed by fleet Mel Gray and Terry Metcalf is one of the most exciting in the National Football League.

Say hello to the Cards, but do it in a hurry. Otherwise you'll miss these speed-burners.

Washington and St. Louis go at each other in a first-place showdown Sunday, but the Skins are likely to be missing some bodies. Quarterback Billy Kilmer, cornerback Mike Bass and linebacker Brad Dusek are all hurting.

The combination of Redskin injuries and Cardinal youth makes St. Louis a 3½-point choice in most quarters. But the Pro Picker figures the old guys have one or two big games left in them. So, he'll stick with Washington this week.

Last week's figures were 10-3, increasing the season's record to 76-28 for .731.

The picks:

Washington 24, St. Louis 17

It will be up to Randy Johnson to run the Redskin offense with Kilmer out. But he did the job in the second half last week and there's no reason to believe he can't do it in the full game this time around.

Miami 31, Houston 21

The mechanical Dolphins are just too good for the young Oilers, who'll be in Miami's class some day, but not this week.

Los Angeles 23, Atlanta 10

A soft schedule and a fat lead may have made the Rams a little lackadaisical. Maybe losing to San Francisco last week will snap them back to reality. Certainly, the Falcons won't, even if Steve Bartkowski can play.

Minnesota 26, New Orleans 7

This will be nine in a row for the Vikings, who just keep winning. But the Saints offer no real challenge in this mismatch.

Pittsburgh 30, Kansas City 10

The Steelers are beginning to think about the playoffs and that'll be bad news for the Chiefs. KC has won four of the last five including last Monday night's turnover travesty at Dallas. Pittsburgh doesn't engage in that kind of bumblng.

Oakland 38, Cleveland 7

Oh my, can't something be done about this pairing? If the Raiders are merciful, the winless Browns may stay within four TDs or so. If Oakland gets mad, look out!

Detroit 20, Green Bay 10

Now that he's piloted the Lions to two straight victories, can we really still call Joe Reed a third-string quarterback? And by the way, what-ever happened to Green Bay's "Fresh Start With Bart?"

N.Y. Jets 28, Baltimore 24

Upset Special. It was about this time last year that the Jets resurrected themselves and won six straight games. The coaches tell you this year's team is better than that one was and it's about time they started playing that way.

Dallas 19, New England 14

Cowboys must win if they have NFC East title aspirations. The season has already been shot for the Patriots. So pick the team that needs the game most. That translates to Dallas, but not by much.

San Francisco 16, Chicago 13

Steve Spurrier is the difference here. He threw three touchdown passes in his first start last week as the 49ers beat the Rams by one point. The Bears should be easier ... about two points easier.

Denver 24, San Diego 10

The Broncos came close to upsetting Cincinnati last week, losing by a single point because of a bad snap on an extra-point try. They won't need that point against the winless Chargers.

NY Giants 23, Philadelphia 16

Both teams played well last week but lost to the NFC East leaders, the Giants bowing to Washington and the Eagles to St. Louis. One of them will win this week ... or would it be more appropriate to say that one of them will lose, since that's what both seem to do best?

Cincinnati 27, Buffalo 10

The Bengals can't run with the ball but they certainly can throw it. And the Bills defend well against the run but have trouble when the ball is in the air. That adds up to a Cincinnati victory.

Studded Tires Legal On Ohio Highways

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Studded tires are legal on Ohio highways now until April 15, the Department of Transportation says.

The department said the tires became legal for winter use on Nov. 1. An old law provided their use from Nov. 15 to March 15. The legislature changed the dates during the past session.

Tom Seaver of the New York Mets paced National League hurlers in wins during 1975 with 22.

Soy Numero Uno, in Spanish, means "I'm number one." That colt, a $55,000 yearling purchase last year, won the Belmont Futurity.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Certain matters in which you are interested need an extra push now. Get to them immediately. And, in all things, emphasize forethought, tact, precision.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A change in rhythm, a different pace may be in the making. Take steps to contribute to an already eminent record. The "little" things could steal the show.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Present aspects suggest keen observance of conditions and situations before launching new projects. Make certain you know what you are about.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Where expedient, accelerate your pace, but where a slowing down is necessary do not fight it and cause unrest. Emphasize poise and perseverance.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Effective action will win approval of associates. Intelligent discussion will help to crystallize your next moves. Rational analysis of all issues important.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Don't yield to "wanderlust" or daydreaming when consistent effort at chores and other affairs is in order. You could be dilatory now without realizing it.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Step lightly, with measured gait. There may be a few delicate spots, perhaps a detour you can take. Don't chafe at roadblocks: Regard them as challenges.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): In both thoughts and actions, be careful not to overstep bounds or underestimate your opponents. If you observe these admonitions, you should have a dandy day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): There's much more to this day than you may realize at first. Go forth and find that new opportunity you want and tackle it vigorously. Avoid extremes, however.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): A generally good day, but you may run into a few obstacles — which could be caused by your own procrastination, disinterest or skepticism. Avoid such negative approaches.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Some brand new opportunities indicated. Your day should be active, stimulating. In all dealings, however, stress diplomacy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A good period for improving on current projects as well as launching new ones. Your integrity, perseverance and quick thinking will lead to success.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a bright mentality, lively imagination and unusual versatility. Your aims are usually lofty and you back up your desires with powerful action; can, in fact, invigorate a whole community through your enthusiasm and dynamic leadership. In choosing a life work, many fields are open to you, so make it a point to educate yourself for one which best suits your inclination. You have a strong affinity for science and could reach a high place in chemistry, medicine, engineering, geology or astronomy. Your gift for showmanship fits you for the theater or politics and you have a way with words which could bring success in the literary world or on the lecture platform. Either music or the law may also appeal to you. Birthdate of: Sir William Herschel, Brit. astronomer; W. Averill Harriman, U.S. statesman.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Gary Nolan Named For Hutch Award

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — "To be able to help the club win the championship fulfilled my greatest comeback hopes," Cincinnati Reds pitcher Gary Nolan said after being named Thursday as the 1975 recipient of baseball's Hutch Award. The award is presented annually in memory of former major league pitcher and manager Fred Hutchinson, who died of cancer in 1964. It goes to a player who overcomes adversity and best exemplifies the spirit, competitiveness and character of Hutchinson.

June Grass Winner Of Latonia Feature

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — June Grass was an easy 34-length winner in the $900 featured sixth race at Latonia Thursday night. The winner paid $5.20, $3.20 and $3. Lady Street paid $3.20 and $3 for second and Royal Solon, third, paid $4. The 3-7 daily double of Intrepid and Jambo Charter returned $72.

Men Commute To Cincinnati In Model T, 1949 Lincoln

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — When the weather is good and the machinery is in working order, two Cincinnati men commute the 70-mile round trip to their jobs in Middletown in classic cars.

Tom Cloud owns a 1927 Model T Ford. Jeff Marlowe has a 1949 Lincoln.

"We get very enthusiastic about driving, often stop and let the other person drive," said Cloud. "We stick to the back roads with the Model T because its maximum speed is 35 mph. There are a lot of waves from other drivers, and we just a-ooo-ga-back. I have to leave home by 6 a.m. to pick up Jeff so we can get to work on time."

Marlowe said other drivers and passengers often strain to read the "Lincoln" nameplate on the rear bumper of his car which he bought for $275 in 1972. Cloud purchased his Model T as an unregistered car in 1973 at a cost of $1,150 and he now values it at about $3,000.

"It wasn't ready to take on the road until last year," he said.

Car pooling has not exactly solved the problem of saving gasoline money. Marlowe averages about 12 miles per gallon in his Lincoln. Cloud once had to back his Model T up a hill because the gasoline tank was low.

There have been other humorous moments for the classic commuters, who use their more modern cars most of the time.

Marlowe recalled that once a young boy saw him driving the Lincoln and hollered: "Do you have a machine gun?"

Cloud tells of the time he was driving the Model T and saw a man dressed in a tuxedo running down a hillside toward him. The man, who waved Cloud over, asked if a bride and groom could have their picture taken with the car. He was the best man in a wedding party.

The commuting team, which began when Cloud noticed Marlowe's Lincoln parked in the lot of Diamond International Corp., where they both work, will soon be breaking up.

The Clouds have bought a home in Lebanon, Ohio, and will be moving there near the end of the month.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Last year, singer Jerry Reed hosted a short-lived country music series on NBC. Come Jan. 10, he'll start hosting a weekly Saturday night talk-and-music show taped in Nashville, Tenn.

Unlike the NBC series, the new TV show will be put together entirely by Reed and his Nashville associates, not by a Los Angeles-based producer. And it'll be a syndicated series, not a network offering.

Reed, a fiercely independent man, says he doesn't know if the distributor, Nashville-based Show Biz, Inc., tried to interest a network in his new series, "but I discouraged them from doing that."

"I didn't care for networks because we'd have to turn production over to somebody and that's what I don't want to do. I didn't want somebody from out of town coming in here and telling me how to run my music and present my friends."

The wiry, 35-year-old pop and country music star says his 90-minute show, intended for latenight viewing, will have a format akin to the "Tonight" show, but "not as much chatter and little more music."

And, like "Tonight," it'll have a big band—15 musicians, plus three backup singers, led by veteran arranger-conductor Bill Justis.

While it'll feature country music stars, Reed says "it's not going to be country-oriented."

"It's just going to be a show that's representative, I think, of what the music has been in Nashville all along. I want everyone to know how good our pickers are, how good our singers are, and how great the talent is in this town."

Reed, an excellent guitarist whose skill is admired in jazz as well as country music circles, said he'll be playing guitar from time to time "but I can't do it every week because I'd just blow my fastballs by everybody and I'd be burnt out."

"But about every fifth week I'm going to do a concert portion, about eight minutes long, where I sit down with my guitar and my band."

He chuckled. "The band's going to be the rhythm section and we'll just get down and boogie, do all them down-home rotten things and some soft stuff and really let go."

"The rest of the time I'll just open the show, host it, do one number and then let the other talent shine. Because the one thing I don't want to do is burn myself out on television."

Gas Conservation Pondered

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State utility commissioners have ordered Ohio's major gas company to find a way out of a vicious circle in which residential customers who turn down their thermostats can end up paying higher rates.

The unhappy result of previous conservation efforts, says commissioner Sally Bloomfield, has been: "the more residential customers conserved, the more Columbia (Gas of Ohio) lost."

Mrs. Bloomfield does not question that savings in home use of gas could dramatically ease the overall natural gas shortage. "If people just conserved in the residential sector," she said at a recent briefing with energy reporters, "we could easily save 30 per cent of the residential load."

But she said Columbia should "make sure that if residential users conserved, they would not be penalized."

In a little noticed section of its Oct. 31 order, the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio said Columbia must devise a plan providing for commercial and industrial customers to pick up the tab for money lost through reduced residential use. The commission set a

Feb. 1 deadline.

"In encouraging residential conservation," the order said, "the commission would not wish to see frugality contribute to a request for a rate increase caused by declining revenues."

A frugal customer, by the way, will keep his thermostat at 68 or 67 degrees during the winter heating season, based on current advice from Ohio energy experts.

Beyond saying the gas company would meet the PUCO deadline, a Columbia spokesman offered very little information on what the plan might entail. "This is a very complex problem," he said, "We are studying it."

Mrs. Bloomfield suggested one possible approach.

Whatever gas is saved by homeowners and apartmentdwellers could be sold at residential rates to big commercial and industrial users who usually pay less per cubic foot.

All of this is aimed at encouraging more voluntary conservation in what could be a last ditch effort to avert mandatory residential curtailment or rationing.

"While the residential use of gas is considered high priority and does affect human needs, from a purely scientific point of view it is probably one of the most wasteful uses of natural gas," the commission noted.

"Although the commission is not prepared to impose mandatory residential curtailment at this time, the increasing levels of the shortage may well make (that) a necessity at some time in the future."

Maybe as early as next winter, according to some experts.

"I don't know if it (conservation) would even work if you had to force people to do it," Mrs. Bloomfield says. "I would rather have it on a voluntary basis."

Berrigan Lashes Military Machine

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)— Pacifist Philip Berrigan said the anti-war movement of the 1960s was overrated and died with the Vietnam war but left the military machine intact.

Berrigan, acquitted in the celebrated Harrisburg, Pa. trial in which he and others were accused of plotting to blow up heating systems in federal buildings and kidnap U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, addressed the Kelly Religious Center at the Quaker Wilmington College.

"The antiwar movement and the war buried each other," Berrigan said. "The movement is dead."

"Where else do you see a country that has the severe spiritual damage due to a Vietnam, and yet the military machinery is still intact and there is no antiwar movement?"

"How can our leaders bluster about limited nuclear warfare without a reaction from every pulpit in the nation? How can Ford and Kissinger talk about first strike capacity and not have an overwhelming reaction from the people?"

He said he was most disturbed about the passive mood of Americans today in not reacting to continued nuclear war planning.

"There are elements of our life in this country that aren't safe. There is always a need for people to say that, because it is the truth—people talk of insanity or social injustice regardless of the consequences," he said, adding that his is involved in a "conspiracy to save lives."

The nuclear stalemate "means we are captives of high level terrorism. We have been held hostage to those weapons for 30 years now," he said, while leaders who could push the buttons have "the mentality of people like G. Gordon Liddy."

Berrigan said American passiveness indicates "we still don't understand the German experience—how passivity allowed the rise of Hitler and the holocaust," adding that "it has been estimated that in human terms, our chance of making it to the turn of the century is against us."

Berrigan, answering questions, said he opposed peaceful uses of nuclear energy because the byproducts can be used for nuclear weaponry. "It's use is immoral because of the implicit dangers. The energy cartel has a stranglehold on energy production which leads to frantic government sponsorship of such idiocy."

He said that the dropping of atomic bombs in Japan ending World War II was unnecessary because no invasion of Japan would have been necessary.

There Was Sailboat On The Roof

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — It was a freak accident. A 2,000-pound sailboat landed atop a car parked in a shopping parking lot. It happened this way:

George Revel of San Francisco was driving, trailing his new 22-foot sailboat. Suddenly the boat's trailer broke loose from Revel's pickup truck, veered to the side of the road and struck the parked car. The sailboat slid off the trailer right on top of the auto.

The car was pretty well flattened but the new sailboat received only a few scratches.

White Woman's Creek, now called the Walhonding, a tributary to the Muskingum River, was so named in honor of Mary Harris, said to have been the first white woman in that region of Ohio. Carried away by Indians when a child, she became the wife of Indian Chief Eagle Feather.

Winter's full force spread across Ohio today, dumping two inches of snow in the Cleveland area. An equal amount was forecast to still fall in northeast Ohio before the end of the day.

Accompanying the first snowfall of the season, temperatures dropped below freezing and winds gusted to 30 miles an hour.

In the Cleveland area, snow flurries and local snow squalls were forecast by the National Weather Service. High temperatures were predicted in the upper 30s.

Around the rest of the state, temperatures were to drop into the 20s tonight, with clearing skies in the west and snow flurries continuing in the east. Highs Saturday will be in the 30s and 40s, with diminishing snow activity.

Strong winds around Lake Erie will likely produce some beach erosion along the lake shore from Port Clinton to Dunkirk, N.Y.

Seven Appear On Felonies

Seven persons appeared Wednesday and Thursday in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court for sentencing on felony charges.

William Marsh appeared on charges of aggravated burglary and grand theft. Marsh was a juvenile certified to the common pleas court by Judge William Ammer. He was sentenced to a term of 4-25 years at the Ohio State Reformatory for Men on the burglary charge and county prosecutor Richard Gerhardt recommended the dismissal of the theft charge.

Also appearing for aggravated burglary and grand theft was James Pearce who was sentenced to a 4-25 year term at Mansfield on the burglary charge. He was also sentenced to 1-5 years at Mansfield on the theft charge.

The court suspended a similar sentence against Richard Drenner and placed him on probation for three years. Drenner was charged with aggravated burglary and grand theft and received suspended sentences of 4-25 and 1-5 years at Mansfield, respectively.

Danny Joe Meade was found guilty of violation of probation during Wednesday's session of court. Meade had been in Akron at the time of his violation.

He had originally been charged here with grand theft and breaking and entering and was released from two 1-5 year prison terms under the provisions of the shock probation statute.

Judge Ammer revoked his probation, reimposed the sentence and ordered Meade to serve the balance of it.

Also found guilty of violating his shock probation was Dan Dennis. Dennis was originally charged here with uttering and publishing a forged prescription for narcotics. He was found to be in violation of his probation by being arrested in Crawford County for a similar offense.

Dennis had been placed on shock probation on Feb. 1, 1974. The court reimposed his earlier sentence and ordered him to serve the balance of it.

William Henderson, indicted by the last term of grand jury for two counts of grand theft and two of aggravated burglary, was sentenced on the latter two charges. He was sentenced to two concurrent terms of 4-25 years each at the Mansfield Reformatory. The two theft charges were dismissed.

Also indicted by the last grand jury was Sheila Grooms who appeared Thursday morning on a charge of theft. Ms. Grooms was sentenced in 1974 to a term of six months to five years at the Marysville Reformatory for Women and was placed on probation from that term until Feb. 8, 1978.

By pleading guilty to the theft charge, she was found to be in violation of that probation. The court sentenced her to spend 60 days in the Pickaway County Jail and extended her probation until Feb. 8, 1979.
